Where Are the Kings? No Woman Clowns Descended From Donkeys The Engineer's Eye

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1922, by Star Co.)

Where are the Kings of 1914? You could add a verse to Villon's question:

"Ou est le preux Charlemagne."

Before the war, according to Frank Munsey's own figures, forty-one royal dynasties ruled various nations. Only seventeen are left to mourn the death of Charles of Austria, and hope that his son will be permitted as Emperor to continue the career of Hapsburg fizzle and failure.

The war was a curse, but if something could do for mosquitoes, rats, mice, white ants and the tse-tse fly what the war did for royalty, it would be welcome at any reasonable price.

A philosopher wonders why women will do anything dangerous in the circus, but are never clowns. An old circus man says it is because women hate to be laughed at. He is mistaken. A clown must get rid of all his dignity. And for a woman, fortunately, that is impossible. Try as she may, there always remains something human, dignified, reserved. No red spots on her cheeks, pointed cap on her head or ridiculous clothes, can change it. She cannot be a clown. Nature never intended it. Man, good clown, came first. Then came woman and dignity.

Professor Conklin of Princeton says Bryan's preaching on evolution is "buffoonery." It is not that. Mr. Bryan seeks new issues, and has found one, better than 16 to 1. Nobody in politics will dare contradict him. Mr. Bryan is defending God against Charles Darwin, Lamarck, Wallace, Huxley and Haeckel. This defence of Omnipotence against its tiny creatures is applauded by great crowds. A few, perhaps, wonder that Omnipotence should need Mr. Bryan's defence against the five evolutionists, since Omnipotence created them, knew exactly what they were going to say and allowed it.

Mr. Bryan, sincere, is doing useful work, collecting great crowds and making some of them think without hurting the others that agree with him. He will turn many to the study of biology, which is all that is needed. Eventually he may conclude, as others have done long since, that the trouble with humans is not that they are descended from monkeys, but that so many are descended from donkeys.

The Wolverine, fast train between New York and Chicago, was flying at top speed toward a pile of steel pipe and heavy timbers criminally put on the track. William Otis, engineer, watching every foot of the road, saw the barricade, slowed down, prevented derailment and the killing of his passengers.

It was not the president, board of directors, efficiency expert or the ladies and gentlemen that draw dividends without working that saved those passengers. It was the eye of that engineer, who is constantly told by railroad owners and their newspapers that the way to make railroads prosperous is to cut the pay of railroad workers.

The traveling public might remember that.

The school superintendent of Atlantic City says school teachers mustn't have hair bobbed; it is not dignified.

WHY? Isn't a lady with hair cut short, able to wash it without sitting for two hours with the back of her head against a radiator, as respectable as Mlle. Cleo De Merode, with heavy hair draped around her ears and a Belgian King in her record?

School officials should not have Chinese ideals of the old kind. They thought it undignified to go without a queue down to your waist and couldn't tolerate a woman that didn't squeeze her feet so that she could hardly walk.

The marvel of yesterday is today's commonplace. An Airedale terrier in the radio room of the University of Kentucky hears the voice of his owner calling him in Pittsburgh. The dog recognizes the voice, barks around the instrument, thinking his master is in it.

Eugene J. Martin, thirty-eight years, discouraged soldier, who fought with the marines in the Argonne, sat listening to radio messages through his wireless set as he committed suicide by inhaling gas. He was found dead, wearing the wireless headpiece. He had written: "I am the result of thirty-eight years of failure."

We must find that which makes life worth while inside of ourselves. All the wonders of science will not supply it.

State Probe in Police Scandal

ARRESTS EXPECTED SOON

Assistant Municipal Court Clerk Is Suspended as "Go-Between"

An order for a special joint committee to make a complete legislative investigation of the Civil Service Commission as a result of the police scandal was introduced in the House today by Representative Coleman E. Kelley, Democrat, of Dorchester. The order provides for a committee of three senators and six representatives and gives them necessary powers.

Developments were swift and sensational today in the civil service scandal, which has assumed State-wide proportions and threatens wholesale arrests and prosecutions of officials in and out of the department.

Herbert S. Hill, for five years employed as seventh assistant clerk of Boston Municipal Court, was suspended on charges that he had acted as a "go-between" in fraudulent traffic in civil service examination papers. His arrest is looked for.

Hill lives at No. 35 Taft street, Revere. He is married. His failure to report for duty today was regarded as highly suspicious. His suspension followed a conference which Chief Clerk Edward J. Lord of Municipal Court and Chief Inspector John R. McGarr, had with Justice Wilfred Bolster. After this conference Chief McGarr conferred with Civil Service Commissioner Payson Dana at the State House.

Commissioner Dana held an important conference with Governor Cox after announcing to State House reporters that he had launched a sweeping investigation of his department at the close of which he

Stocks Buoyant; New Records Set by Many Issues

New York, April 6.—Buoyancy characterized trading on the Stock Exchange today.

Overnight buying orders were the largest of the present bull market. High records for a year or more were established by many leaders.

Dealings up to 1 p. m. approximated 1,000,000 shares, the largest total for that period since December, 1920.

Washington, April 6.—Advances in Liberty Bond prices were ascribed today at the Treasury to the gradual loosening of money and credit.

OLD-AGE PENSION MEASURE KILLED

Wendell Phillips Thore's bill to establish a State-wide system of old-age pensions was today reported "leave to withdraw" by unanimous vote of the Legislative Committee on Social Welfare. The same committee, with three of its members dissenting, voted to report against Mr. Thore's bill which would establish old-age pensions in those cities and towns which have voted in favor of the principle under the Public Opinion Law. Representatives George P. Webster of Boxford, Hugh Campbell of Boston, and Jeremiah J. Healy of Natick, were the dissenters.

STAR 'COMEDIAN OF BIG SHOW' TRIES TO DIE

Rochester, N. Y., April 6.—"I have been the star comedian in the big show and now I know I'm through." Such was the message left by Louis Greenfield of New York City, who was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital from a room in Hotel Seneca, where he was found unconscious, with a bottle which contained iodine by his side. His condition is grave this afternoon.

LILLIAN RUSSELL FOR "IMMIGRATION HOLIDAY"

Washington, April 6.—An "Immigration Holiday" of from one to five years was recommended to the House Immigration Committee today by Mrs. Lillian Russell Moore, who recently made an inspection of conditions in France, England and Italy under a commission by President Harding. She said, "America should care for Americans first."

RAILWAYS LAYING OFF MEN

New York, April 6.—Railroads are laying off men as a result of the coal strike. The Lackawanna Railroad, heavier carrier of anthracite, has laid off between 150 and 200 men, an official of the company said.

ARBUCKLE RESTS HIS CASE

San Francisco, April 6.—The defence in the Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle manslaughter trial announced today that it rested its case. Its last witness was Arbuckle.

JOBLESS NEPONSET MAN DIES BY GAS

William Connor, sixty-eight years old, out of work and despondent ended his life today by inhaling gas through a tube which he held in his mouth as he lay abed in a lodging on Walnut street, Neponset. Firemen from Ladder 7, across the street, used a plumotor on the man for an hour without result.

MORRILL IS GRILLED ON STAND

Counsel for Carter, One of Co-respondents, Clashes Over Questions

The exclusive social set in which Leon Gilbert Morrill of Brookline moved did not consider it "exactly fashionable" for a man to golf or ride with his own wife, according to testimony by Morrill today in the hearing of his divorce action at the Dedham Superior Court.

Morrill, who seeks freedom from his beautiful wife, Mrs. Florence R. Morrill, admitted this under a cross-fire of questions from Attorney Proctor. Proctor represents Douglas S. Carter, one of the two men named as co-respondents.

"Wasn't it fashionable in that set for a man not to ride with his wife? Weren't the cards pretty will shuffled?" Proctor asked.

"Yes, they were, more or less," admitted Morrill.

Morrill said his attitude in regard to his wife's relations with Carter changed from "slightly suspicious" to "strongly suspicious" a day or so after the occasion when he saw his wife enter Carter's sleeping room in the Morrill apartment, clad only in her nightgown.

MORRILL QUESTIONED.

Attorney Proctor quizzed Morrill at length in regard to this episode. Morrill said he had been shaving in the bathroom and saw his wife's reflection in the mirror.

He admitted Carter might have been asleep. He said his wife stayed in the room only "about a minute," remaining at the foot of the bed.

Morrill admitted Carter had been a close personal friend of his, but denied inviting him to spend nights at the Morrill home. This was done by Mrs. Morrill, he said, and she did it so often that Carter eventually came to the apartment without any invitation.

A fresh surprise was given the throng at the courthouse when it was learned Carter has sued his wife, Mrs. Sarah Carter, for divorce.

Carter, it was learned, charges his wife deserted him on July 15, 1920. She will fight the suit when it comes up for trial, which is expected to be during the present term of court.

Morrill remained under cross-examination several hours. He reiterated much of his previous testimony to the effect that Carter and Mrs. Morrill were continually "pairing off" whenever they met at golf courses, tennis courts or country clubs.

At times Morrill faltered slightly under the cross-fire of questions, but his testimony remained unshaken on the main points. Proctor and Morrill's attorney, Knowlton, had frequent verbal tilts. On one occasion Attorney Knowlton denounced Proctor for his "persistent mis-statement of testimony."

MAID TO TESTIFY.

Morrill made further admissions in regard to his wife's sensitive nervous condition. During 1915 and 1916, he admitted, he had been told by his physician to treat Mrs. Morrill considerately.

Morrill admitted he had objected strenuously to Carter's going to a dinner party at Paragon Park, Nan-

FREE RADIO SETS FOR READERS

Boston American Will Give Away Receiving Apparatus as Prizes

Free! Free!! Free!!!

Hundreds of radiophone receiving sets with which you can listen to wireless concerts and news flashes will be given away free by the Boston American.

Anybody can get one of these sets. The opportunity is open to everybody.

Hundreds have been trying to buy radiophone receiving sets, but have been told that there are none to be had. Factories are working night and day, but cannot begin to fill the demand.

The Amrad people in Medford, say they cannot begin to accept new orders until January. Another big manufacturer of radio instruments, who is now building a third new factory, has not accepted a single order since February, and will not accept any until he has caught up.

TURN AWAY HUNDREDS.

Radio supply stores throughout the city turn hundreds away daily, because radio instruments cannot be bought at any price.

The Boston American has been fortunate, however, in being able to secure a large number of radiophone receiving sets, complete with phones.

They consist of the "Victor" Supersensitive Radiophone Receiving Set. This is a crystal detector set. It differs from all other crystal sets, however, because of a patented device whereby the primary and secondary coils are wound in parallel.

This increases the efficiency of the instrument, and makes the transmitted voice or music sound as clear as a bell.

EXTRA LARGE CRYSTAL.

The instrument is mounted on a bakelite panel, having a beautiful mahogany finish. It has an extra large tested galena crystal, the dial is thoroughly shielded, and it has both a primary and secondary coil.

With it comes a pair of headphones made by the Kellogg Switchboard & Supply Company, the largest makers of switchboard supplies in the world. The phones have a 2,400 ohm resistance. The headband has an ingenious arrangement which holds the phones lightly and tightly against the ears without clamping against them, as is the case in some other phones.

These sets are said to have a range of fifty miles. That means that if you live near Boston, you will be able to listen to the wonderfully attractive programs that are broadcasted every evening by the Amrad station at Medford Hillside.

With such a set, you can hear the

'College Widow' Who Died by Own Hand

Court Asks That "Sorry Affair" Be Covered by "Charity of Silence"

PAULINE VIRGINIA CLARK

Following a secret inquest at which the guests at the famous "suicide party" told their versions of the affair and events leading up to it, Chief Justice Bolster of Municipal Court announced that "no person living" could be held responsible in any way for the girl's end.

'NO PERSON LIVING' AIDED SUICIDE

Witnesses of Back Bay Tragedy Testify at Secret Inquest in Beauty's Death

Pauline Virginia Clark today was officially declared a suicide by Chief Justice Wilfred Bolster of the Municipal Court, following a secret inquest at which a number of witnesses were heard.

In his report, turned over to District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, the chief justice said the girl came to her death through the act of "no person now living," and urged that the "sorry" affair be covered "by the charity of silence."

In connection with the finding of the court, it was learned that Pauline Clark had left a suicide note addressed to her mother, in which she forecasted her own death.

The suicide letter reads in part:

> "March 16, 1922.
>
> "Dearest Mother:
>
> "Don't be surprised to hear that I have ended it all. It's not because there is anything I want and cannot have. There is nothing I haven't got. Rather is it because of what I have and don't want. It's only a short time for all of us anyway. I hope this will not hurt you. Forgive me. With love,
>
> "POLLY."

This letter, torn to shreds, was found in a waste basket in the girl's den by Medical Examiner Magrath, who matched the pieces and glued them together. The note was written on blue monogrammed paper, and addressed to Mrs. Sara Herrick, the girl's mother, then a housekeeper in a hotel at Kingston, Jamaica. Needless to say Mrs. Herrick never received it.

Chief Justice Bolster also made a finding today of suicide on the part of Otto Haldor Larsen, Norwegian student at Technology, who was said to have given Miss Clark the poison.

The inquest itself was exceedingly brief, lasting but one hour, the stories of nine witnesses being heard.

NINE WITNESSES.

These were Miss Ona Cosskie of Worcester, the only other woman

PICKPOCKET AT CONFERENCE OF METHODISTS

A pickpocket bobbed up as an unwelcome "delegate" at the New England Methodist Conference in the Centre Methodist Church, Malden, today. As a result George P. Anderson, a delegate from Melrose, is out $75.

As Anderson entered the church a youth jostled against him and then suddenly vanished. Anderson reached into his pocket a moment later and discovered that his purse had disappeared.

The police were notified and search made for the irreverent thief.

The conference voted against changing the present number of districts from four to six. A resolution to revise the standing list of fifty special appointments was adopted. It was announced that on Sunday fifty ministers—a record number—will be ordained.

REPORT MELLON IS TO LEAVE CABINET

International News Service.

Washington, April 6.—An administration family row of such proportions that it may lead to the resignation of Andrew W. Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury is in full swing.

The retirement of the multi-millionaire Pittsburgher from the Harding Cabinet has been rumored a dozen times in recent months, but the rumors have always proved groundless. Today, however, these reports revived with such persistence as to convince many of his friends and opponents alike that Mr. Mellon's retirement is imminent.

COURT FINDS 'NO PERSON LIVING' CAUSED PAULINE CLARK'S DEATH

ASKS 'SORRY AFFAIR' COVERED BY CHARITY OF SILENCE

present at the fatal party. She testified fourteen minutes.

Bayard Wharton, Harvard athlete and scion of a wealthy Philadelphia family, reported to have been engaged to Pauline Clark. His testimony also lasted fourteen minutes.

Joseph R. Torrey, 2nd, of Worcester, who accompanied Miss Cosskie to the party, and who told his story in six minutes.

Dr. Joseph Garland and Dr. William B. Breed of No. 104 Marlboro street, who testified only a minute or two.

Henry Haskell of No. 115 Hemenway street, who found Larsen's body.

Medical Examiner G. B. Magrath, whose testimony was given in about five minutes.

Special Officer Frank McNab of the Back Bay police station who told of his endeavors to find Larsen after the death of Miss Clark.

Patrolman James Rooney of the same division, who testified to taking Larsen's body to the morgue.

A patrolman was assigned to list the names of the witnesses and their examination was carried out with expedition.

MISS COSSKIE'S STORY.

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, who ordered the inquest, was present throughout the proceedings, and later gave out the report of Chief Justice Bolster.

The first witness to be called was Dr. Breed, who testified he was summoned to the Newbury street apartment in his capacity as a physician and pronounced the girl dead. Dr. Garland, who occupies the same office, and was called at the same time, testified to practically the same thing.

The next to be called was Miss Cosskie, who had arrived from Worcester with young Torrey in his automobile. She said she was in the kitchen with Torrey preparing coffee when Miss Clark took the poison. She told of a bottle which the other girl had previously shown her, which the Clark girl claimed contained poison enough to kill an army.

She also told of the announcement by Miss Clark of her engagement to Wharton earlier in the evening. She said Wharton and Larsen were with the girl in the living room, a scream was heard, and on rushing into the living room saw Pauline Clark crumpled up on the floor.

WHARTON TESTIFIES.

Larsen, she said, rushed from the room with a bottle in his hand. The witness said she called a doctor. She could give no reason for the girl's act.

Torrey, the next witness, corroborated the testimony of Miss Cosskie, and was followed by Wharton, who had arrived unaccompanied shortly before the opening of the inquest.

Wharton, pale and apparently worn by the tragedy, told of being in the room with Miss Clark and Larsen.

He said he knew nothing of the girl's act until he saw her suddenly produce a bottle, and drink from it, after which she fell to the floor.

He testified he shouted: "Pauline has taken something," and Miss Cosskie and Torrey rushed into the room. Wharton said Larsen seized the poison bottle and ran from the apartment, muttering something about getting a doctor.

SPIRIT GIRL AWAY.

Wharton's appearance was a surprise, as it was reported that he was remaining in seclusion at his Philadelphia home. Immediately after the inquest, he and Torrey, together with a friend of the latter, rushed Miss Cosskie to the Worcester man's automobile, waiting on Somerset street with engine running. The entire party leaped aboard and the car shot down the hill, careening into Howard street.

Dr. Magrath, who arrived at 10:25, forty-five minutes after the inquest started, was the next witness. He testified briefly regarding his connection with the tragedy, and said his investigation and subsequent autopsy convinced him that the girl had died of poison self-administered. The policemen followed, and the Chief Justice then received the newspaper men.

He said the proceeding was a legal inquiry, corresponding to a hearing before any judge, to determine whether or not evidence should be turned over to the Grand Jury. His report he said would contain his findings.

Robert Christie, Akron, O., tire salesman, who was the only other person at the party, did not appear at the inquest, but his deposition was turned in to the chief justice.

Immediately after the proceedings the body of Larsen was claimed by the Norwegian Consul, and sent to Forest Hills Cemetery for cremation. The ashes will be shipped to Norway.

The girl's body was expected to be claimed by her mother and taken to Appleton, Maine, for burial. As far as the authorities are concerned both cases are closed.

Threatened Suicide Before She Met Otto H. Larsen

Serious illness the last few months of Pauline Virginia Clark's life discouraged her and made her crave for pleasure. She surrounded herself with gay friends and held many rieque parties in her luxurious apartments. She drank heavily and confided to friends that these soirees were the only things that made her forget her ills.

She had talked and threatened suicide long before Otto Larsen, the young Norwegian chemist and philosopher, met her. But everything in the case indicates that he encouraged her suicidal bent.

WAS IN KITCHEN WHEN PAULINE TOOK POISON

Miss Cosskie, Only Other Girl at Suicide Party, Relates Her Version of Tragedy

"'I was not in the room when Miss Clark took the poison. I was in the kitchen preparing coffee. I did not see the tragedy take place. Wharton and Larsen were the only ones in the room with Miss Clark as far as I know when the fatal drink was taken."

Miss Ona Cosskie, friend of Pauline Virginia Clark, and the only girl guest who attended the now-famous "death party" at which Miss Clark met her death, thus told her story today.

"Earlier in the evening Miss Clark announced that she and Wharton were to be married the following Saturday," Miss Cosskie declared. She stated she did not know whether or not that announcement had anything to do with the tragic end of the party.

Miss Cosskie's story was that she and Joseph R. Torrey, 2nd, son of a millionaire Worcester manufacturer, were in the little kitchen of Miss Clark's apartment when they heard a scream from the living room.

LARSEN LEAVING.

She rushed to the living room and there found Miss Clark crumpled up on the floor. Wharton was in the room, she declared, and she stated that Larsen was leaving the room with a bottle in his hand.

Stunned by the scene, she called a doctor as soon as she could collect her thoughts.

Miss Cosskie insisted she knew of no reason why Miss Clark should have taken her life. She did not know where the girl got the poison.

Dressed in a chocolate brown tweed suit, pale blue cape, jaunty little hat, and wearing a large fur stole, Miss Cosskie presented an attractive appearance as she appeared at the inquest. The ordeal evidently had its effect upon her, for her calm disappeared and she appeared excited and careworn as she stepped from the room in which the inquest was held.

FLED AFTER HEARING.

She was taken to the courthouse from Worcester in the machine of Lewis Torrey of Worcester. It was driven by Joseph R. Torrey, 2d. She, Torrey and Bayard Wharton fled in the machine from the courtroom after the inquest was closed.

Miss Cosskie stated that she was not returning to her home in Worcester after the inquest. Instead, she said, she was "going away for a week-end trip." However she was in the Torrey machine and in the company of Wharton and Torrey when the machine sped away.

One of the big surprises of the inquest was the appearance of Bayard Wharton, the fiance of Miss Clark. He was reported to be in seclusion at his home in Philadelphia, where he was being shielded from all callers.

He wore the same familiar black derby hat that made him a conspicuous figure on the Harvard campus. His face was ashen pale and heavy lines showed about his mouth and eyes.

BERMAN SUIT IS ATTACKED BY LAWYER HURD

W. Minot Hurd, a Boston attorney, has entered his appearance as counsel for Daniel H. Coakley, in a bill brought against the latter by Meyer Berman to recover $50,000 which he alleges Coakley extorted from him.

Attorney Hurd also filed a request for a jury trial and a demurer to the bill.

In his demurrer the attorney declares the bill on its face shows Berman does not come into court with clean hands; that it shows the plaintiff paid over sums of money for the purpose of "stifling a criminal prosecution against him," and, therefore, he is not entitled to relief in equity.

Hurd also contends the bill shows that the plaintiff, in the matter of payment to the defendant of the several sums, as alleged, entered into an unlawful agreement to compound a felony.

SUBSIDY'S COST $52,000,000 YEARLY

Washington, April 6.—(By International News Service.)—Adoption of President Harding's ship subsidy plan would ultimately cost the government $52,000,000 a year, it was said today by A. D. Lasker, chairman of the shipping board, in testifying before a joint Congressional committee.

His statement came after a series of rapid fire questions from committe members.

Lasker said the government would save $5,000,000 of this total by carrying its foreign mail in American ships.

Report Declares Inquest Fails to Reveal Crime

The official report declaring Pauline Virginia Clark to have been a suicide, which was made by Chief Justice Wilfred Bolster of the Municipal Court, following a secret inquest, follows:

The presiding justice of the said court having been duly notified of the death of the said Pauline V. Clark and of the circumstances attending the same, by George B. Magrath, M. D., one of the medical examiners of the said county of Suffolk, after hearing testimony relating to the cause and manner of said death, finds that the said Pauline V. Clark came to her death at said city of Boston on the sixteenth day of March, year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two, in consequence of poisoning by hydrocyanic acid, self administered, with suicidal intent.

Neither the thorough investigation by the medical examiner comprehensively reported nor investigation by the police authorities, nor any evidence disclosed at the examination at the inquest, participated in by the district attorney in person, disclosed a particle of evidence tending to show incitement to suicide, or participation in said act by any person now alive.

In the proceedings designated only to ascertain whether the machinery of the criminal law should be set in motion, I deem it unnecessary to report in detail with reference to the acts of the only person at whom suspicion is directed, that person being now dead (see inquest report No. 34 Otto Haldor Larsen.)

Under these conditions, it is my opinion that the whole sorry affair should be covered by the charity of silence.

(Signed) Wilfred Bolster,
Chief Justice Municipal Court of the city of Boston.

Haldor's death found poinson administered with suicidal intent and no unlawful act of any other person contributed thereto.

STATE INVESTIGATION OF CIVIL SERVICE ASKED

would make a request to Attorney-General J. Weston Allen to prosecute all found to have been implicated in frauds on the civil service system, the nature of which shocked the Commonwealth today.

Commissioner Dana stated with emphasis that he would revoke every appointment in which a fake examination was found, not only in the Boston police department, but in the police department of any other city in the State where fraud was found to have been practiced, and any public department employing civil service appointees. Developments today indicated that other police departments throughout the State may be involved as deeply as the Boston Police Department.

EXAMINERS CONFESS.

Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson announced he would make a thorough investigation of his department, adding he did not wish to act blindly, and on that account would not take any steps before receiving a report from Civil Service Commissioner Dana. He said Inspector Albert W. Carnes had resigned, but that he had suspended him and had refused to accept his resignation.

The two examiners or so-called "monitors" dropped from the Civil Service Commission force are John J. McMasters of Lynn and Frederick W. Thomas of Lowell. They have confessed to their part in the system of fraudulent sale of civil service examination papers and face prosecution.

Investigation today revealed that Clerk of Court Hill and Detective Sergeant Carnes and McMasters of Lynn have long been on the most intimate terms. McMasters lived near Hill in Revere before his marriage, when he moved to Lynn. Hill was employed in the State Highway Department before becoming assistant clerk of Municipal Court.

MET ALMOST DAILY.

There he met almost daily Detective Sergeant Carnes who had charge of auto thefts for the Bureau of Criminal Investigation at police headquarters. The friendship of Hill, McMasters and Carnes had, it is said by friends, to have been more than ordinarily close.

Hill has a wife and two-months old baby. His wife was surprised to hear that he had been suspended. She said he left at 8.30 o'clock this morning as usual to go to work, but he failed to report at the court house.

Suspicions of irregularities have existed for some time and sufficient facts have cropped out to indicate a general system of fraud involving not only police departments, but local courts and municipal officials.

In a statement to State House reporters today, Civil Service Commissioner Dana said:

TO ASK PROSECUTIONS.

"I am satisfied that there are no others in my department involved. However, I have ordered a sweeping examination to ascertain all the facts and to put a stop to irregularities if they exist. When I complete my inquiry I shall report to the Attorney-General and request prosecutions.

"I intend to find whether there were any other 'bum' police examinations in addition to those two in March for the Boston Police Department. Fraudulent examinations must be stopped. The only evidence at hand to date implicates only John J. McMasters and Fred W. Thomas. I don't think any others will be involved, but I plan to find out.

"If I find that there were any other crooked examinations in Boston or any other police departments I shall cancel them and take proper action. If I find that fake examinations were conducted in any other departments I shall cancel them also. I shall use my entire force on this inquiry if necessary. Records will be carefully scrutinized in the search for irregularities.

ACTED AS SUPERVISORS.

"McMasters and Thomas confessed to me last Saturday and were discharged at once. They told me they received $60 for the police examination at the State House in March, one getting $40 and the other $20.

"They worked as monitors or prompters at examinations and were sent with the examination papers to whatever town or city the examinations were held.

"They had been ordered to go to New Bedford last Saturday night, but as soon as I received the inkling of irregularities I gave them the third degree and sent two substitutes to New Bedford.

"It is the duty of monitors to pass among the candidates and supervise the examination, but not to give candidates the slightest assistance as to answers.

"Only four clerks have access to examination papers. I can't see how anybody could have got hold of them unless someone stole original papers from the desk of one of the clerks who have proper access and made copies for fraudulent use.

Declaring that he was made the "goat" of the Civil Service Commission, John J. McMasters, discharged Civil Service employe, in a statement to a Boston American reporter, charged that others were implicated in the sale of Civil Service questions, which has been going on for two years. He was found at his home, No. 63 Collins street, Lynn, where he moved from Revere two years ago.

SAYS OTHERS GUILTY.

"Although I was implicated, I was only partly responsible for the distribution of advance copies of the Civil Service examinations to Boston policemen," he said.

While admitting that he and others had accepted money for advance copies of the examinations, Mr. McMasters said there was only three instances, two in 1920 and one in 1921.

INQUESTS TOOK ONLY AN HOUR ALTOGETHER

The inquests into the deaths of Pauline Virginia Clark, the Back Bay "college widow," and Otto Haldor Larsen, the Norwegian Tech student, who died from poison taken from the same phial, occupied exactly one hour at the Suffolk County Courthouse today.

Chief Justice Wilfred Bolster presided. The witnesses were: Miss Ona Cosskie, of Worcester, the only girl besides Miss Clark at the "death party" at which the latter drank poison; Bayard Wharton, Harvard student, reported engaged to the dead girl; Joseph Torrey, of Worcester, another guest at the party; Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath; Patrolman Rooney and Special Officer McNabb of the Back Bay station; Inspector James A. Dennessey, homicide expert at headquarters, and Dr. Reed, who pronounced the girl dead.

GIRL CALLED THIRD.

None of the witnesses was in the "star chamber" more than 15 minutes, Miss Cosskie and young Wharton, who took the longest, were in 14 minutes each.

Dr. Reed and another physician were called first. They were dismissed after stating they had been called to Miss Clark's palatial apartment at No. 282 Newbury street, and found her dead.

Miss Cosskie was the third witness called. She was followed by Torrey, whose testimony took 9 minutes. Wharton succeeded Torrey, and then Dr. Magrath entered the room. The hearing had been under way some [illegible] minutes before the Medical Examiner arrived.

FLED REPORTERS.

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien entered the room with Chief Justice Bolster and remained until, following the inquest, the judge issued an informal statement.

Special police were on guard outside the inquest room, and also kept guard over the witnesses, who sat in an adjoining chamber, until, one at a time, they were called into the room.

All of the witnesses entered the Courthouse by the Somerset street entrance. When they had finished testifying Miss Cosskie, Torrey and Wharton held a conference in the witness room. Miss Cosskie requested a police escort to prevent the cameramen from snapping her picture.

Escorted by a detail of police the group marched in close formation to the Somerset street door. One reporter, who attempted to speak to Miss Cosskie was roughly pushed against the wall by Wharton.

TAGUE ACCUSES LODGE OF INACTIVITY IN CONGRESS

Congressman Peter F. Tague denounced the proposal of the administration to close the Charlestown Navy Yard and its awarding of the Leviathian contract to a private ship-building company before a mass-meeting of the United Veterans of the Republic at Roughan's Hall, Charlestown.

"Our Chamber of Commerce and Boston business men are dead as far as the city's interest in the Charlestown Navy Yard is concerned," he affirmed.

"Sinister influences are at work at Washington against the Charlestown yard. Lasker is a bigger man in Congress than Lodge, which explains why the Senator's efforts were futile. The blame should be laid at the door of the Republican administration."

2 BOSTON MEN ARRESTED IN OIL PROBE

Nine Indicted Here in Alleged $1,000,000 Stock-Selling Swindle

An alleged oil swindle in which Bostonians were duped of more than $1,000,000 was revealed today when indictments were returned in Federal Court against oil promoters of Boston, New York and Holyoke.

Court action followed closely on the heels of action in New York where several men were indicted in an alleged $2,000,000 swindle there involving Walter B. Clarke of Boston.

Boston men indicted today were: Chipman E. Babcock, Jacob W. Mettler, Frederick C. Kersey, Charles M. Ludden, E. Franklin Foley, John E. Gilcreast, Frank W. Bernard and Edward A. Clark. The Holyoke man was Edward E. Busnell. Eight New York promoters were indicted also.

The men are charged with using the mails to defraud.

Evidence centres on elaborate promotion literature mailed to thousands of persons who subscribed to oil stocks alleged to be worthless, some of them divorcing themselves from hard-earned savings in an effort to get rick quick.

SEVERAL CHARGES.

Immediately after the indictments were issued United States deputy marshals swarmed out of the Federal Building to apprehend the men.

Ten minutes later Ludden and Gilcreast were under arrest.

According to indictments the promoters floated an oil organization under Deleware laws known as the Petroleum Corporation of America. It falsely advertised, the indictments charge, that capital stock was $60,000,000, its annual earnings $50,000,000 and its capacity from wells 120,000 barrels per day. It represented itself, it is charged, as the parent of 31 companies, so important that the Standard Oil Company was making overtures with a view of purchasing.

Indictments charge that the corporation had not been and was never fully financed when stock that did not exist was being sold. The indictments deny the company ever possessed the physical property claimed or ever had the notice of the Standard Oil Company. It is further charged the output and earnings were grossly exaggerated.

CONVEYANCE OF STOCK.

According to Federal officials a Boston trust company, acting for New York companies, negotiated with Chipman E. Babcock for the incorporation of an oil company known as the Franklin Oil Company, formed with a capitalization of 10,000,000, of shares at $10 per share.

Babcock, it is said, turned into the company leases of oil properties in Colorado. In April, 1919, it is charged this company was absorbed by the Petroleum Corporation formed by New Yorkers. There was a conveyance of stock. The government alleges that at the time of this conveyance there was much unsold stock in the treasury of the Franklin Oil Company and that Babcock went to Bernard and told him to sell it. It is alleged he sold $200,000 worth.

BAY STATE DRY LAW REPORTED TO HOUSE

The Massachusetts Volstead bill which Senator Silas D. Reed of Taunton declared would make Massachusetts "the driest sport in the world," was today reported favorably in the House by the Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs.

The purpose of the bill as announced by the Anti-Saloon League is to make the State laws "conform" with the national legislation which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquors.

One feature of the bill would make every policeman, sheriff and constable an enforcement officer, under penalty of fine, imprisonment or removal from office for failure to prosecute the Volstead act.

The demand for this legislation was spoken by Governor Cox in his inaugural address. Senator Reed and Representatives John J. Heffernan and Timothy J. Driscoll of Boston today voted to dissent from the committee's report.

MALDEN GIRL IS TRICKED BY MILLIONAIRE OF MANY WIVES

4 WOMEN BIGAMIST VICTIMS

Grafton Married Two of Them Within 3 Weeks Last Winter

New York, April 6.—Four women will figure in the matrimonial tangle of Joseph Donald Grafton, millionaire son of a Pittsburgh manufacturer, it was revealed here by Ellen McIntyre Grafton and Peggy Davis Grafton. One of the four is a Malden, Mass., girl.

The two women appeared at the district attorney's office, Ellen claiming that Grafton had married her in Youngstown, O., November 23, 1921, Peggy saying that Grafton had wed her seventeen days later.

Miss McIntyre—and she insisted on being called by that name—said:

"I know Grafton was married years ago and has a son by his first wife. Then I learned that a Mrs. C. J. Goode of Malden, Mass., had advertised that her daughter had been deserted by her husband, a man named Joseph Donald Grafton. I don't know how many girls he tricked.

Polly Lorayne, a chorus girl who is believed to be Grafton's first wife, arrived here today to confer with the "Mesdames" Grafton.

Grafton was indicted for bigamy by the Grand Jury today.

Mrs. Capitola Laird, mother of Peggy Davis, who laid the matter before the district attorney's office, said:

"Peggy's love for Grafton and her marriage meant her giving up a career that promised a great future. Her own company was being formed in which she was to star in a film production. This she gladly gave up for Grafton. The marriage was effected December 10.

"Don, however, was insistent that no publication of the marriage be made. He said that he was afraid that a certain other woman would find out where he was and start trouble. For this reason, he took us to Troy, where he rented an apartment for $40 a month."

Miss McIntyre said that she was married to Grafton the latter part of November and that her family strenuously opposed the match because Grafton was known to be a "man about town." Miss McIntyre said:

"Grafton's love-making simply took me off my feet when we met in Pittsburgh. I broke off my engagement with a boyhood chum, on whom the family look with great favor. I admit that I succumbed to Grafton's courtship against my own judgment.

"We were married in Youngstown, O., and later we went to Cleveland, for a honeymoon."

tasket, which was being arranged for Mrs. Morrill by her family. He objected, he said, because he believed Carter was "especially interested" in Mrs. Morrill.

He told Carter and Mrs. Morrill, he said, he was "tired of acting as chauffeur for them," and said either he or Carter would not go to the party. Carter offered to remain away, he continued, but Mrs. Morrill would not hear of it. As a result Morrill finally consented to drive the two to Rowe's Wharf, where they took the boat for Nantasket.

On returning to his home after an out-of-town business trip, Morrill said, his wife concealed from him the fact that Carter had spent the night in their apartment. This was told him by the maid, Mrs. Connolly, he added, and as a result he called Carter to his office and accused him of trying to break up his home.

Notwithstanding this clash, however, Morrill admitted going out to lunch with Carter later.

Morrill was to be followed by one of his star witnesses, Margaret Dickson, a pretty nursemaid in his home, who is expected to testify concerning incidents that took place there.

Another witness who was to be called by the plaintiff was Mrs. Anna Connolly of Somerville, formerly a second maid in the apartment. She was to relate her observations of the occasions when, Morrill testified, Carter remained at the Morrill home overnight.

NEW DIVIDEND SOUGHT FOR DEPOSITORS

Bank Commissioner Asks for Authority to Transfer Cosmopolitan Funds

Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen today took steps to obtain another 25 per cent. dividend for depositors of the closed Cosmopolitan Trust Company when he petitioned the Supreme Court for the right to transfer $1,377,000 from the commercial department of the bank to the savings department.

In his petition he charged the transfer was illegally made by bank officials. He claims the cash was shifted to cover notes, the majority of which were almost worthless.

The sum of $80,000, he said, was loaned on whiskey and rum.

Among companies obtaining big loans from the bank, he stated, were the Hugh J. Diamond Co., Sterling Products Co., New England Lumber Co. and the Mayflour Photoplay Corporation.

He declared many of these concerns were dominated by Max Mitchell, president of the bank.

Claims Trust Companies Evaded Taxes

How Massachusetts trust companies cheated the State of large sums of money in taxes was explained today by Former President John R. McVey of the Old South Trust Company to the legislative Committee on Ways and Means.

"The laws were evaded generally by the trust companies," he said, "in order to escape taxation. It was the general practice for the companies to transfer their mortgages from their savings departments just prior to the assessment of taxes on April 1 and then to deduct the amount of their mortgages from their property to be taxed. It was a wholesole operation, involving large sums of money. The practice has been stopped as the result of recent and better laws."

50 WOMEN STAY AT MEAL AFTER SHIP GROUNDS

2 Liners in New York Harbor; 150 Are Rescued From Providence Boat

New York, April 6.—Fifty women passengers on the steamship Concord from Providence, R. I., calmly finished eating breakfast today when the craft grounded in a dense fog off Sunken Meadows, near Hell Gate.

A jar was felt as the steamer struck. Stewards told diners there was no danger. There was no panic, ship's officers said.

Fifty other passengers were aroused from their berths and told to be ready to be taken ashore. Police boats landed all the passengers safely. They were brought to New York by train.

The Concord grounded at the same time the City of Brockton, a New Haven, Ct., freighter, hit a sunken reef only twenty-five feet away.

It was learned when the fog lifted that both vessels narrowly escaped running down a government barge and several launches near the scene of the accidents.

The steamer Providence of the Fall River Line, inbound from Fall River, lost her way in the thick fog and anchored just a few yards away from the two stranded vessels.

Through several streets the pair raced before the officer ran him down. Hudgens was locked up at the Joy street station.

The transfer of the patrolmen goes into effect at once. The officers report at their new stations tomorrow.

It is understood that an entire new force of "investeigating officers" will be recruited for the department from among civilians.

HEAR ARGUMENS OVER ALLEN'S INDICTMENT

Attorney-General's Counse Attacks Pelletier in Plea to Quash

Testimony was concluded and arguments begun today at the hearing before Judge Fessenden in the Superior Court on the plea of Attorney General J. Weston Allen for the quashing to the indictment charging him with the larceny of $155.49 from a woman client.

Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, counsel for Allen, in his concluding argument declared the conduct of former District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier and former Assistant District Attorney Frederick M. J. Sheenan, who presented the case to the Suffolk County Grand Jury came close to making "this a spurious prosecution."

Sheenan, who took the stand for the District Attorney's office, when Assistant District Attorney Daniel M. Lyons, conducing the case for the government opened his side after the petitioner closed today, declared he had been surprised not by the vote of "no bill" first returned by the Grand Jury, but by the rapidity of the count of hands by the clerk.

Parker in cross-examination drew from the witness that he had questioned the Grand Jurors after the filing of Allen's plea in abatement.

Sheenan declared that he had called the Grand Jurors to his office "because certain statements in the papers filed in this case raised my suspicions that some of the Grand Jurors had not told counsel for the attorney general the absolute truth, and I wanted to find out what their story might be."

Sheenan was followed on the stand by Miss Mary Shields, stenographer in Pelletier's office at the time the indictment against Allen was handed down. She testified that she had seen Jeremiah Desmond, foreman of the Grand Jury, visit the office of Attorney William Flaherty, of Allen's counsel, before going to the office of former Assistant District Attorney Sheenan.

Lyons offered in evidence the foreman's Grand Jury book as well as that of the Grand Jury clerk. Both books showed a record of the Allen case as "no bill; reconsidered true bill."

I. R. A. SOLDIERS FACE ULSTER FORCES

Southerners, Believed to Be De Valera Men, Prepare for Action

Belcoo, Ireland, April 6 (By the Associated Press).—An extraordinary state of affairs prevails in the County Fermangah district. Irish Republican army forces are within one hundred yards of this town, which is inside of Ulster territory.

The Southerners can be seen moving about, the rival forces glaring at each other. Ulster specials and I. R. A. troops are on duty at either end of the bridge which separates Belcoo from Black Lion, County Cavan.

Occasionally members of the two parties approach to within ten yards of each other, with their rifles ready to fire, but they never speak. The I. R. A troops at their end of the bridge have two machine guns in place.

The Republican troops have sandbag barricades and tree trunks ready to move into position to close the road. The Southerners are believed to be followers of Eamon De Valera. Large I. R. A. forces are said to be assembling in the Black Lion district with transport material.

100 Free Staters Captured at Mallow

Dublin, April 6 (By the Associated Press).—One hundred young men from Tralee, proceeding to Dublin to join the Free State Army, were intercepted today at Mallow, County Cork, where they were to change trains, by a strong party of Republicans. A clash occurred in which it is reported one of the Free State recruits was wounded.

All the Free State men were arrested and taken to the barracks at Puttevant, County Cork.

If there is any plan on foot here for a conference between the leaders of the Irish Free State party and the Irish Republican faction, no one in a position to know the facts would admit it today.

Machine Guns Used on Constables

Belfast, April 6 (By the Associated Press).—Republican forces are reported to have been concentrated on the section of the Ulster frontier between Counties Leitrim and Fermanagh.

Eamon De Valera, during his visit to Londonderry, presided at a conference of the Six-County Committee appointed by the Ard Fheis to advise concerning the policy to be followed in Ulster

It appears from the proclamation issued by the officer commanding the Second Brigade of the First Northern Division of the Irish Republican army that De Valera sympathizers in the brigade held a convention and decided to break away from the regular army.

Dublin, April 6. (By the Associated Press).—The offices of the Free State party in Sligo were raided today by men who damaged the furniture and removed all documents and propaganda literature.

Dublin, April 6.—Guerilla warfare broke out today between the mutinous factions of the Irish Republican army and the troops supporting the Irish Free State. Free State troops were ambushed and attacked in County Wicklow. Later, the attackers fled.

Dundalk, April 6. — The war on goods made in Ulster continues. A number of armed men visited the railroad depots here this morning, held up the officials and ransacked and destroyed sixteen wagon loans of merchandise.

NURSE STONE MURDER CASE GOES TO JURY

Defendant Expresses Confidence in Fairness of the Jurors

New York, April 6.—The case of Olivia M. P. Stone, charged with the murder of Ellis G. Kinkead of Cincinnati, went to the jury today.

Hope that she would be free to go to her mother before the end of the day was expressed by Miss Olivia Stone when she left jail in Brooklyn to hear Supreme Court Justice Aspinall charge the jury.

She passed a restless night She ate a light breakfast before leaving for court.

She gave frequent expression to the hope which she said she held in the fairness of the jury. There are no members of her sex in the box.

The prosecution, in summing up, asserted that the case was a test of the supremacy of American law and would determine whether justice could be meted out to men and women alike.

Miss Stone's defence was that, betrayed by Kinkead, she had traced him, hoping to get him to right a wrong. She testified that on the day of the shooting she was seized with cramps, took a drink of gin, and after she met Kinkead had a temporary explosion of the brain, and recollected nothing of the shooting.

HOPE FADES FOR EARLY PEACE IN COAL STRIKE

Majority of Operators Turn Down House Committee's Plan for Parley

Washington, April 6 (By International News Service).—All hope of effecting early settlement of the nation-wide coal strike through "peace meeting" between the operators and striking miners, proposed by the House Labor Committee, was definitely abandoned this afternoon

Rejection of the joint conference invitation by a majority of the coal operators in the central competitive field was announced by Chairman Nolan of the Congressional Committee.

The refusals, he admitted, sidetracked efforts to end the strike "for the present at least."

"But," he added, "we have not yet lost all hope that eventually the operators will agree to holding a joint conference with the miners as to the best method of effectually solving the present controversy."

Miners and Operators in Week-End Parley

New York, April 6.—Week-end sessions of the anthracite miners' and operators' sub-committee on wage contract negotiations were agreed upon by both parties today as an aid to speedy settlement of the hard coal strike.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, was at the head of the union delegation on the committee, and the miners predicted they would complete their case by tomorrow night.

PLAN TO SCRAP ALL BUT 3 NAVY YARDS

Washington, April 6.—All but three of the navy yards, those of Norfolk, Mare Island and Bremerton, Wash., will be "scrapped" and only 12 of the 18 capital ships allowed the United States under the naval treaty will be kept in commission if the drastic cut in the navy appropriation proposed by the House appropriation committee is carried out.

LOVE LETTERS WITHIN JAIL TO BE CENSORED

Wilmington, Del., April 6.—Flirtations between men and women prisoners at the New Castle County workhouse have reached such a point that Warden Mordecai S. Plummer has established a jail postoffice and censorship for love letters. "It was the logical thing to do," said the warden. "Because men or women are in jail is no reason to think they won't fall in love. Lots of romances begin in prison."

WARN ARMY AND NAVY OF "RED" PROPAGANDA

Washington, April 4 (By International News Service).—On top of the warning issued to the American navy against acceptance of "Red propaganda" came a similar warning this afternoon addressed the army by Secretary of War Weeks. Weeks said: "Certain radical elements" have been at work in both army and navy attempting to inculcate Soviet doctrines in service men.

EDISON'S RATE CARD CALLED CAMOUFLAGE

Company Charges 17,000 Customers All They Will Stand, Says MacFarland

Denouncing the whole rate structure of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company as "mere camouflage," Attorney Grenville S. MacFarland of the Boston American declared to the State Department of Public Utilities that the Edison frames up a new set of rate theories every time it is driven into a corner.

He charged that the Edison has neither a scientific nor a just system of charging rates to any or all of its many classes of customers.

He declared that the Edison has failed to make any effort to determine how much it costs to produce electricity and to deliver it to its customers, in order that it might charge them a fair and reasonable rate.

ALL EXPLANATIONS DIFFER.

He asserted that every one of the Edison's "experts," from President Charles L. Edgar down to Richard S. Hale, superintendent of research, has given a different explanation of the way the Edison goes about fixing its rates and that no two of them have agreed.

Mr. MacFarland's scathing denunciation of the Edison rates was made after Superintendent Hale had admitted that the Edison charges 17,000 of its customers all they will stand and then collects from the other 118,000 customers what the Edison thinks it needs to pay the balance of the cost of operation and to pay dividends to its stockholders.

During his examination of the research superintendent, Mr. MacFarland forced an admission that the Edison has been in combination with other privately-owned electric corporations throughout the country from which the Boston American and the city of Boston have been getting figures showing that the cost of electricity is much lower than in Boston.

Mr. MacFarland said that inquiries about rates, the cost of business, the profits and the character of the territory served had been sent to 200 companies in other sections of the country and in Canada.

GOT FEW ANSWERS.

"Those companies have been in correspondence with you?" said Mr. MacFarland. "Yes," said Mr. Hale, "we got letters from them saying you were asking questions and would be all right to answer."

"What did you tell them?"

"I told them it would be all right to answer."

"Does that account for the fact that we have received answers from but half a dozen of them?" Mr. Hale said he didn't know.

Mr. MacFarland asked what effect upon the rates was traced to the proximity or the distance away of the customer from the sub-stations. "That doesn't enter into the rate," said Mr. Hale.

"Well, if Mr. Knight has told this commission that it does, then you disagree with him?"

Mr. Hale said he didn't know what Mr. Knight had told the commission. Mr. Hale said he changed his own ideas about the factors that should enter into the rate-making. He was not sure but he thought he changed his ideas before the Boston American and the city of Boston filed their petitions to force down the prices.

SYSTEM MERE CAMOUFLAGE

"You are the head of the research department," said Mr. MacFarland to Mr. Hale. "You ought to have copies of those articles there. How much does the Edison's research department cost the Edison a year?"

"I don't know," said Mr. Hale.

"What difference does it make if this witness has changed his ideas about the theory of rates?" said Chairman Attwill.

"We are going to show," said Mr. MacFarland, "that the whole rate structure of the Edison is mere camouflage. It changes from time to time, to meet every new exigency."

"The commission ought to know when the theory was changed," insisted former Corporation Counsel Arthur D. Hill. "The city of Boston at least would like to know."

"The commission has a right to know if the Edison is sincere in the various statements it is making," said Mr. MacFarland. "It is perfectly obvious they are going to alibi their rates for distinctly different reasons." Mr. Hale then agreed to bring in copies of his articles.

The hearing will go on again Monday morning.

Each is to have its own manager and set of executives, and each will attend to its own business independently of the other.

Civic Society Recommends Giving Guns to Citizens to Stop Crime Wave

New York, April 6.—The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York today appointed a special committee to take up with city officials means of combatting the crime wave, with the aid of armed citizenry.

By Associated Press.

New York, April 6.—With the city agitated over the number of crimes since January 1, the New York Society for the City of New York today recommended to Police Commissioner Enright that the city virtually be turned into an armed camp.

The society appointed a committee to study means of curbing "the present wave of crime which is sweeping not only this city, but the entire world."

"We respectfully suggest," read the recommendation, "that a certain number of respectable citizens—say twelve—in each block be furnished with pistol permits to use for defensive purposes and to assist regular police officers."

ONLY 26 BRAVE PACIFIC MILLS PICKETS

Officials Admit Heavy Losses, but Say They Have Not Decided on Closing

Lawrence, April 6.—Only twenty-six workers braved the picket lines today at the entrance to the Lower Pacific Mills, where normally 2,500 men are employed, and where yesterday it was estimated that about 500 were at work. The strikers hailed this as a direct result of the more drastic picketing and demonstrations at the mill entrance last night.

The Pacific Mills, which normally employ 8,200 workers, are by far the most important of those affected by the strike and it has been against the lower plant that the strikers have been directing their strongest efforts for the past few days.

Mill officials admitted heavy losses today, but stated no decision had been made as to closing the mills. For several days past they had claimed steady gains, and they had stated that more workers must appear or the mills would be forced to close down.

Police said today slight gains were made in the worsted department of the Upper Pacific Mills, but it was estimated not more than 1,000 were at the three Pacific plants.

The Patchogue-Plymouth Mills, manufacturers of paper bags, reopened today after having been closed since Monday.

DIVORCE GIVEN MAN WHO DID FAMILY WASH

Young Leavitt of Rockland, After Year's Battle, Wins Sensational Suit

The end, of the famous Leavitt-Caldwell divorce tangle, which for more than a year has interested the best families in Brockton, Abington, Whitman and Rockland, has come with a divorce for Richard C. Leavitt, from his wife Irma E. Leavitt.

The man alleged to have done the family wash for fifty-year-old Mrs. Alice C. Caldwell of Abington, setting a new standard of qualifications for male corespondents, was granted a decree by Judge Bishop in Superior Court. Mrs. Leavitt's petition for divorce was dismissed.

The Leavitts lived at No. 255 Webster street, Rockland.

Mrs. Leavitt in her action charged that Leavitt left their home with a party of girl friends on the night of Dec. 1, 1918, and forgot to come back.

When young Leavitt, who is but 22 years old, was named as corespondent in the Caldwell divorce suit more than a year ago, a sensation followed. He was revealed as a "star boarder."

Mrs. Caldwell was granted a divorce from her husband, Charles A Caldwell, now of Brockton. It was Caldwell in a counter action who had named young Leavitt.

There followed a $10,000 allenation of affections suit by Mrs. Leavitt against Mrs. Caldwell, also the divorce action of Leavitt against his wife.

Leavitt's alleged scrubbing activities, which Mrs. Leavitt said he never did for her, spirit world messages, charges of occult powers and alleged trombone solos by young Leavitt in the Caldwell parlor, were features of the Caldwell case.

TEXACO
GASOLINE
THE VOLATILE GAS
(Volatility is the readiness with which gasoline gives up its power)

MILEAGE GOES UP

UPKEEP GOES DOWN

When you use the highly volatile Texaco gas it's just like putting a new motor in your car.

Every motor has a theoretical horse-power rating. Whether it actually gives that power or not depends on the gasoline and how readily it vaporizes.

You may have a four-cylinder forty h. p. engine today and a six-cylinder forty-five h. p. motor tomorrow—in effect. That difference is in the gasoline you buy. When you buy Texaco, the volatile gas, you are buying full engine-power.

It's what happens in the cylinder at the moment of maximum compression—the vital sparking instant—that determines how much of your engine's capacity to deliver is actually delivered to the rear wheels.

Some gas is sluggish; it does not vaporize quickly; it is not completely volatile. Such gasoline cannot possibly give up all its power. It hasn't time.

Texaco Gasoline gives the immediate action that puts full vigor into your motor. Texaco Gasoline is volatile.

You'll find that there's more mileage in Texaco Gasoline—and you'll find, too, that your upkeep is lower. With a good spark—at the right time—and Texaco, the volatile gas, you have the combination that means easier starting, better hill-work, greater flexibility, smoother idling and less shifting—better performance in everything a car should do.

Texaco Motor Oils are heavy-body lubricants and are distinguished by their clear, pale color. Light, medium, heavy and extra-heavy—they fit all cars and all conditions. You will find them wherever you see the Texaco red star.

DISPUTES DAY'S STORY OF BECK TRAGEDY

Prosecutor Holds Finding of Bullet Back of Brain Fails to Jibe

By International News Service.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 6.—Surprising developments are expected in the slaying of Lieutenant-Colonel Paul Ward Beck, commandant of Post Aviation Field, Fort Sill, by Jean P. Day, former Supreme Court Justice, and millionaire oil man.

Day's story of the tragedy, according to Prosecutor Hughes, has been disproved in the finding of the bullet lodged in Beck's brain.

The mushroomed pellet entered back of the airman's head, splitting against the skull and penetrating every part of the head in a dozen fragments.

"How a man could be facing another and then shoot him in the back of the head is beyond me," Hughes said, commenting on Day's story.

In answer to Hughes' statements, Day re-enacted the tragedy in its entirety. With his twenty-year-old daughter, Doris Day, as a witness, Day, with the aid of his wife, detailed every move he claims to have made in the brief space preceding Beck's death.

"Daddy, did exactly right—I glory in him." Miss Day, tears streaming from her eyes, told the group who witnessed her father's portrayal.

"Why don't they believe him—why do they doubt mother?" the girl demanded.

Miss Day's statement is believed to have prompted her mother in demanding the right to tell her complete story before a coroner's jury Saturday.

"I want to tell my story—tell it all," Mrs. Day said. "I have nothing to hide—I did no wrong. My husband is the only man I love."

Mr. Ryan attended the public schools in Wellesley, and graduated from Rock Ridge Hall. For twelve years he was manager of the service department of the Boston Buick Company. A few years ago he formed the partnership of Ryan & McMath, Buick Service station in Cambridge. He was thirty-eight years old.

Rome, April 6 (By International New Service).—Even at Genoa, Premier Lloyd George will not escape political agitators who seek the separation of their homelands from the British Empire. Said Bey, head of the organization known as "The League of Oppressed Nations," announced today he would present a request to the Genoa conference that Egypt be given full and complete liberty so as to be a free and independent State. The British recently rescinded their protectorate over Egypt and a King was acclaimed.

WM. SAMPSON, BOSTON ACTOR, IS DEAD AT 63

New York, April 6.—William Sampson, a member of the cast of "The First Year" throughout its run at the Little Theatre, died from heart failure at the Hotel Seymour. His wife, who was Miss Webster of Boston, was at his bedside. Sampson was sixty-three years old and was born at Boston. He had always maintained his place of residence at Minot, Mass. Interment will be in Mount Auburn Cemetery at Boston.

SMOKESTACK CATCHES BAND MUSIC BY RADIO

Greenville, Ala., April 6.—Strains of "Dixie" from a band floated down a big steel smokestack to a boiler here and were heard by workmen inside the boiler. There was no band in the vicinity. The mystery was put down as another radio phenomenon. It is believed the metal stack of the W. T. Smith Lumber Company, with its guy wires as the antennae, functioned as a receiving set during a radio concert delivered from some unknown point.

TRIES TO EVICT BILLIE BURKE FOR CALLS

Chicago Widow Charges Star Phoned Nightly to Husband at $15 Each

By Associated Press.

Chicago, April 6.—Telephone calls by Billie Burke to her husband, Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., in New York, made it necessary for the actress to obtain a court injunction in order to retain a nine-room house here.

The owner of the property tried to dispossess Miss Burke, but was restrained by a court order, issued in a special session.

Miss Burke advertised for a nine-room house for the period March 19 to April 9. Mrs. Frank Townley Brown, who recently formed a widows' protective league, agreed to rent Miss Burke her home for $1,150.

A few days ago Mrs. Brown asked Miss Burke to leave and yesterday came to take possession of the house. Miss Burke then went into court and obtained the injunction.

"I have nothing against Miss Burke personally," said Mrs. Brown, "but I found she was telephoning to her husband in New York every night at $15 a call. Those calls will all be on my telephone bill.

"Then I understand she has nearly the entire cast of her play living there and I know my house will suffer from so many people.."

SULGRAVE GETS BIG GIFT FROM U. S. WOMAN

London, April 6.—Mrs. Woodhull Martin has presented to the Sulgrave Institution, an organization for fostering friendly relations between Great Britain and the United States, her beautiful Elizabethan manor at Bredon, Worcestershire, with its valuable contents and surrounding estate, besides a series of guest houses for the use of Americans and British interested in the promotion of friendship between the two nations, according to the Morning Post.

Victoria Claflin Woodhull Martin, is a native of Homer, O., where she was born in 1838. She was nominated for the presidency of the United States in 1872 by the Equal Rights Party.

—Fresh From Paris—

Latest From Marie Suzanne

Paris, France.

A DOUCET afternoon gown of black taffeta and black lace that sets itself off with a scarlet velvet scarf, gives the impression of being typically French. The elbow length lace sleeves are trimmed with jet, and cells of the black taffeta are quaintly outlined by perforated strips of white taffeta about the girdle, down the front of the frock and edging the hem. Note the shortened line at the front of the skirt.

A FROCK of light blue crepe marocain from Cheruit is distinctly original both as to style and trimming. Its surplice bodice fastens down one side with square blue buttons, and what is really an interesting new sort of sash girdle gives the effect of a narrow panel at one side of the skirt. Blue beads trace a delicate design on bodice and sleeves and three shades of blue wool oddly pattern the skirt.

ATTY. MAHONEY'S NAME STRICKEN FROM DECREE

The name of Joseph A. Mahoney, attorney, of No. 53 State street, Boston, has been ordered stricken from the decree of the Probate Court in East Cambridge, issued in connection with the contest over the will of the late John A. Cunningham, druggist, of Cambridge.

This action by the court was taken after it had been shown that Attorney Mahoney's name had been included by mistake in the legal documents relating to the case.

A new decree, framing the issues in the contest for the jury, has been ordered prepared by the court. In this Mahoney's name does not appear.

When the contest came up for hearing before Judge White in the Middlesex County Probate Court on March 8 the counsel for the contestants, made a statement. After listening to this Judge White stated in open court that no representations had been made which in any way connected the name of Mahoney with the case. Judge White then ordered that the name of the attorney be eliminated from the record.

This should have been done at once, but through some oversight the decree remained unaltered and Mahoney's name later got into the newspapers.

MOVIE WORLD NEWS AND COMMENT

Boston Society Girl Is Soon to Make Her Debut in the Films

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

HELENKA ADAMOWSKA
(Photo by Garo)

"BOSTON Society Girl Scores in Films!" is what I could shout were I a newsboy. As it is, I can only explain quietly that none other than Helenka Adamowska, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adamowski, will be a member of the cast of players supporting Glenn Hunter in his next picture, "The Second Fiddle."

Hunter won a Boston following during his recent run here with Billie Burke in "The Intimate Strangers," played at the Hollis Street Theatre. It was doubtless during that engagement that the arrangements were made for Miss Adamowska to make her screen debut.

AMBITION GRATIFIED.

Miss Adamowska has intended going on the stage since she was fourteen. Her parents objected, saying that if she felt the same way when she was twenty, they would give their permission. This season found her with the same ambition, and she has been in New York for some weeks, staying at the Three Arts Club, and appearing in a small role in "Back to Methuselah," the Theatre Guild production.

She has long been a factor in the amateur theatricals about this city, appearing with the Cercle Francais of Harvard, and in the Vincent Club shows. She has already attracted favorable notice for her playing by Laurette Taylor.

STAR DUST.

WHERE are the stars of yesteryear? It would seem as if there were nothing that oblivion could swallow up as quickly as it does motion picture satellites, once they leave the glare of the limelight. It is unfortunate that a star can retain his—or her—hold on the public by being seen constantly. It is not so much a case of the quality of their productions as it is of the quantity.

May Allison has not been seen in the pictures for several months. Her name is scarcely ever heard today. Enid Bennet was a popular star at one time. Today she is trying to stage a "comeback" as leading lady with Douglas Fairbanks in his next picture. Robert Warwick, Blanche Sweet, Lew Cody, Za Su Pitts, Edith Storey, Juanita Hansen, Violet Mersereau, Mitchell Lewis, Mollie King, Jewel Carmen and Mary Anderson were by-words in the households of the movie-goers. Today they are forgotten.

Here's another list. Virginia Pearson, Warren Kerrigan, Gladys Brockwell, Helen Holmes, Catherine Calvert, Claire Whitney, Martha Mansfield, Grace Darling, Ruth Clifford, William Desmond, Monroe Salisbury, Louise Glaum and Marguerite Clark had the public eye with a vengeance five years ago. Do you ever think of them today?

OTHER ERSTWHILE STARS

MOREOVER, there are the one-time stars who, according to the studio gossips, "swanked" about the studio on the strength of their standing. Too often has a pretty face caught the fancy of the public and has promptly been raised to the name-in-electric-lights position—to be laughed at by the same public a short time later.

Mildred Harris gave up stardom when she gave up the famous name of Chaplin. She was leading lady in a recent Cecil DeMille picture and since then she has been with no company. Anita Stewart's contract with Louis B. Mayer has expired, and she is trying to get financial backers for an independent company. Ethel Clayton's contract with Famous Players-Lasky has expired and she is preparing to retire from the screen.

Alice Lake has left the screen with the completion of her contract with Metro, while Bert Lytell and Tom Moore, the first an ex-Metro star and the latter an ex-Goldwyn luminary, are supporting players for Betty Compson. Edith Roberts has given up stardom to support others, while still more of the list include Bryant Washburn, Bessie Love, Doris Kenyon, Conway Tearle, Henry Walthall, Louis Lovely, Mary MacLaren and Tom Santschi.

MILTON SILLS SIGNS

MORE than one admiring fan has asked about Milton Sills. That leading man has won his spurs as a movie actor with a vengeance. His rise has in no way been spectacular, but it has been sure. Some years ago he was appearing in comparatively small roles and seemed to stick to that stage for an unusually long time. When he began to rise, though, he continued steadily until he is now in great demand as a leading man.

Sills has been playing in Lasky films lately and now we hear that he has signed on the dotted line to appear as a star in Graf Productions. Their first picture will be "The Modern Madonna," by Caroline Abbott Stanley.

ALICE CALHOUN RECOVERS.

ALICE CALHOUN is another movie player to suffer in the interests of art. She had a fall the other day while making a scene in her next Vitagraph picture, "Locked Out." Working on a scene which involved stepping off a stage coach, she missed her fotting and fell headlong, receiving bruises and a shaking up that kept her out of the studio for several days. She is better at present and is nearly ready to go on with the "shooting."

Humane Society Bans Giving Children Live 'Chicks' for Easter

Jersey City, N. J., April 6.—"Spare the live chick," said the Essex County Humane Society in a statement calling on parents not to give live chicks to children for Easter.

"A live chick is no toy," said the statement, "children only kill it with misguided affection."

The society suggests Easter gifts which cannot be "killed with kindness."

EARL WHO REFUSED TO PAY FOR GOWNS IS UPHELD

London, April 6 (By International News Service).—All early has the right to decide the number of gowns it is necessary for his wife to possess, according to a court ruling here today. The Earl of Cathcart, who is separated from his wife, had refused to pay tradesmen for gowns. The court decision was given in favor of the earl.

MRS. SHUMAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Husband's Housekeeper Tells of Clash Over Return of Children

Clinton, April 6.—Another chapter in the matrimonial troubles of Mrs. Ida A. Shuman of Worcester and her husband, Harold A. Shuman, wealthy clubman, came today when Mrs. Shuman was summoned into District Court charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Ellen Souter, housekeeper for the husband.

The alleged assault took place last night when Mrs. Shuman called to deliver into her husband's custody their two children, in obedience to a court order.

Mrs. Shuman was denied separate support by a decision rendered Monday after a long and sensational trial.

Mrs. Souter charges that Mrs. Shuman, on being admitted to the house with the children, hurled her against a radiator and addressed her in abusive language.

Mrs. Shuman denied the charges and claimed Mrs. oSuter had tried to prevent her from entering the house. On advice of counsel Mrs. Shuman remained in the house overnight.

Her husband was away last night and did not know of the trouble until today.

Under court ruling Shuman is to have custody of the children until June, when they will be allowed to pay a short visit to their mother. Later they will be returned to Shuman's custody.

DANDERINE

Stops Hair Coming Out; Thickens, Beautifies

25 cents buys a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug store. After one application of this delightful tonic you can not find a particle of dandruff or a falling hair. Besides, every hair shows new life, vigor, brightness, more color and abundance.

Use plenty of lather. Rub it in thoroughly and briskly with the finger tips

The final rinsing should leave the hair soft and silky in the water

When thoroughly clean wet hair fairly squeaks when you pull it through your fingers

What Proper Shampooing Will Do for Your Hair

How You Can Make Your Hair Beautiful—Keep It Soft and Silky, Bright, Fresh-Looking and Luxuriant

THE beauty of your hair depends upon the care you give it.

Shampooing it properly is always the most important thing.

It is the shampooing which brings out the real life and lustre, natural wave and color, and makes your hair soft, fresh and luxuriant.

When your hair is dry, dull and heavy, lifeless, stiff and gummy, and the strands cling together, and it feels harsh and disagreeable to the touch, it is because your hair has not been shampooed properly.

When your hair has been shampooed properly, and is thoroughly clean, it will be glossy, smooth and bright, delightfully fresh-looking, soft and silky.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product cannot possibly injure, and it does not dry the scalp or make the hair brittle, no matter how often you use it.

If you want to see how really beautiful you can make your hair look, just follow this simple method:

A Simple, Easy Method

FIRST, put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water. Then wet the hair and scalp with clear warm water. Pour the Mulsified evenly over the hair and rub it thoroughly all over the scalp and throughout the entire length, down to the ends of the hair.

Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather. This should be rubbed in thoroughly and briskly with the finger tips, so as to loosen the dandruff and small particles of dust and dirt that stick to the scalp.

After rubbing in the rich, creamy Mulsified lather, rinse the hair and scalp thoroughly — always using clear, fresh, warm water.

Then use another application of Mulsified, again working up a lather and rubbing it in briskly as before.

You can easily tell when the hair is perfectly clean, for it will be soft and silky in the water.

Rinse the Hair Thoroughly

THIS is very important. After the final washing, the hair and scalp should be rinsed in at least two changes of good warm water and followed with a rinsing in cold water.

After a Mulsified shampoo you will find the hair will dry quickly and evenly and have the appearance of being thicker and heavier than it is.

If you want to always be remembered for your beautiful, well-kept hair, make it a rule to set a certain day each week for Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo. This regular weekly shampooing will keep the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, fresh-looking and fluffy, wavy and easy to manage—and it will be noticed and admired by everyone.

You can get Mulsified at any drug store or toilet goods counter, anywhere in the world. A 4-ounce bottle should last for months.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Elite to Aid at Women's Cosmopolitan Club Bazaar

Mrs. James Purdon of Milton, a member of the Cosmopolitan Club, who is working for the success of the bazaar which the club is giving next Saturday afternoon at No. 585 Boylston street.

MRS. JAMES PURDON

By BETTY ALDEN.

AND still they come — these bazaars and charity sales which more than fill the social calendar these days—so that gradually "Lent" has come to mean "lend." But as everything is for a good cause nobody minds, of course.

Saturday afternoon will find a group of prominent society folk at the bazaar which the Women's Cosmopolitan Club will hold at No. 585 Boylston street from 2 until 10 p. m.

I understand that Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, 2d, and Mrs. Theodore Bremer have promised to pour at the tea—one of the features of the bazaar—which will be served from 4 until 5 under the direction of a group of women from the Musical League. Another "drawing card" will be Robert W. Atkinson, whose cleverness on the piano is no secret to members of the smart set, and who will play during the tea on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. James Purdon of Milton is one of the Cosmopolitan Club's most enthusiastic members, and she is also one of those working hard for the success of the bazaar this week. Others of prominence in the social world who are working for the affair are Mrs. Sidney Hosmer of Bay State Road, president of the club; Mrs. Barrett Wendell, the honorary president; Miss Rose Dexter of Beacon street and Mrs. Sigrid McGraw.

An audience well representative of Boston's select coterie, is expected to attend the concert which will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the large ballroom of the Hotel Somerset. The affair is in aid of the Talitha Cumi Home and Hospital, an institution which has always received a ready helping hand from society.

The committee which has arranged for the concert, includes Mesdames S. Warren Sturgis, William H. McElwain, William L. McKee, I. W. Chick, Olive W. Mink, Charles A. Proctor and George A. Lyon. The following artists will present the program by Mlle. Mona Grondet, soprano; Miss Mildred Darling, harpist; Mrs. G. Loring Tobey and Miss Dorothy Webling, in Vermont folk song; Robert H. Hughes, pianist; Percy Leveen, violinist; and Mrs. William Stanley Parker, in monologues.

Apropos of Mrs. Parker, the latter is constantly being called to render her very clever monologues, which she does, and with all the vim and vigor of her Betty Porter days. Not long ago she entertained the youthful Junior "leaguers" with a most entertaining program of sketches, her efforts meeting with no end of applause. It was the former Betty Porter, I recall, who made such an efficient "head bell-hop" when society women took over the management of the Copley-Plaza for one day last Fall.

Although there is, of course, unlimited interest in "Now" and Then," the show which the Vincent Club is presenting the last week of this month, society by no means lacks interest in "It's Only Natural," the musical comedy which the Hasty Pudding Club will present at the same time.

Though "It's Only Natural" is said to be "just one hit after another," it is expected that a movie pantomime portraying the shooting of Dan McGrew" will be one of the show's special hits. Charles A. Tierney of the class of '22 takes the leading part, and during this scene the stage is entirely changed to meet the requirements of a barroom scene without lowering the curtain, while the dramatic actor recites the lines of a ballad to soft strains of music.

Another clever first act is the song of "The Fifty-Seven Varieties," composed by Joseph Alger. A special lighting effect has been planned for this number, done with projective ornaments. Claude Bragdon of Rochester has charge of this specialty. Recently he came into considerable limelight by his work at St. Mark's in the Bowery, where he used this form of lighting which is supposed to vary with the mood of the service.

WOMEN VOTERS' BILL NOT AID TO DIVORCES

Backers of Measure Granting Separate Residence Privilege Scout Charges

Charges that the bill providing that a woman may have a residence separate from her husband, and be allowed to vote, would make divorce easier were vigorously denied by proponents of the measure interviewed by a Boston American representative.

Mrs. True Worthy White, president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, took exception to the statement made by opponents of the bill, to the effect that many marriages which have been held together by the present laws under which women vote, would go to smash if the proposed measure were passed.

"Of course there has been opposition to the bill, on the ground that it will make divorce easier," said Mrs. White," but having been drawn up by competent men, I think they will see to it that the home does not suffer.

TALK IS ALL BOSH.

"This talk of shaking the foundations of our homes is all bosh," declared Mrs. Rebecca Brown Minot of No. 92 Moreland street, Roxbury. Mrs. Minot is chairman of the legislative committee of the Elm Hill League of Women Voters.

Despite the fact that she was born in Boston, and has lived here all her life, and is a leader in the political movement among the Boston women, she has been deprived of her vote here because her husband has his legal residence in Maine, where his business lies.

"I have no interest in Maine as far as voting goes," said Mrs. Minot. "My interest lies here, and no amount of talk could convince me that giving me the opportunity to vote here would tend to shake the foundation of my home. It merely gives me a right to which I was born—the right to vote where I live.

"As for harm resulting from the bill, you will have to show me. I approve of it. It is what the women need, and should have. I pay taxes here. I want to vote here. If I am allowed to vote, where is the harm coming to my home?"

BENEFIT TO HOME.

"I think the passage of this bill a great benefit to the home, rather than an act that will tend to tear the home apart," said Mrs. Alice G. Bradford of No. 2 Clinton street, Cambridge.

Mrs. Bradford is in business in Boston. Her husband has his business interests in the State of Maine. He votes in Maine, and Mrs. Bradford has to go to Maine to vote or loses her privilege, even though her business is in Boston.

"I am sure that the passage of a bill permitting me to vote here where I am engaged in business will not affect our home and marital relations in the least.

The Eternal Stripe

New York, April 6.—Like good [illegible] some things never change, because, forsooth, they cannot be improved upon. One of the oldest and boldest patterns in men's scarfs is the stripe. Teach her the easy way to do the hardest task

EAGER little worker—she has only just left off playing at the things she now is learning to do in earnest.

Don't let her know the cruel washday rubbing that used to tire you so. Teach her instead the new and easy way to do this hardest task.

Show her how the big lasting Rinso suds soak out the dirt. Even the most ground-in dirt is so loosened that a light rubbing with dry Rinso takes away all traces of it.

Every grain of Rinso is a tiny bit of soap—so pure and perfectly balanced that it soaks clothes clean without hard rubbing. That is why women are using it instead of bar soap for the family wash.

Rinso does the family wash as easily and wonderfully as Lux does fine things. Sold everywhere. It comes in two sizes—the regular size and the big new package. Get Rinso today—at grocery and department stores. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

HUB GIRL SCOUTS TO LEARN RADIO SCIENCE

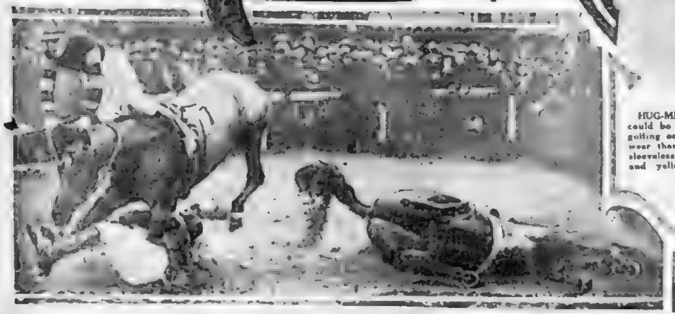
NEXT! Now if this were in America there wouldn't be any next, for imagine being shaved without lather and with an indifferently sharp native knife. That's how the dashing bucks of Nigeria, Africa, got shaved. There's no splitting hairs there, you can bet. Sand is used instead of face powder. No wonder the barber's rough. (Wide World)

ROLLEY POLEY! Even the almond-eyed beauties have taken to "rolling" their own. Here is pretty Anna Jung, who patters (perhaps we should say flappers) about a San Francisco hotel as waitress in this garb.

HUG-ME-TIGHT! What could be more ideal for golfing or general sports wear than this charming sleeveless jacket of white and yellow yarn. (Underwood)

PORTRAITS of former postmaster-generals, rescued from basement of Postoffice in Washington, have been hung in a special gallery of their own in the Postoffice Department. (International)

KEEPING A SHARP LOOKOUT! Fishermen of Jav[illegible] don't give a gosh darn for the poor fish, for instead of hoo[illegible]ing them they use a multiple pointed spear arrow. The[illegible] wade out into the water until they spot a fish, and the[illegible] "ping," and it's all over but the frying.



A BREAK-NECK PACE! The most unusual steeplechase picture to come from England. It shows "St. Bernard" (right) falling over "Awberg" at Bechers Brook. "St. Bernard" broke his neck, but the jockey escaped unhurt.

SWIM AND GROW HEALTHY! Dorothy Hucknall, 13, middle Atlantic breast stroke champion, who weighed but three pounds when she was born. She took to the water when very young and—well, look at her now! ([illegible]onal News Reel)

CHARMING THE SEASONS! M[illegible] Rachel Smith, lef[illegible] and Miss Dolly Hol[illegible]lander, pretty societ[illegible] girl workers, wh[illegible] were conspicuous at the "Bazaar of The Seasons" given yesterday by the Lest We-Forget Committee of the Army and Navy Club at the Army and Navy clubhouse, 10 Park sq.

RADIATING RADIO AND GOOD CHEER! Miss Elsie MacElaney, Boston girl scout troop leader, who, on completing her radio course in the University of California, will return to Boston to teach her scouts the radio science. The camera man caught her "tuning up"

"A WET SHEET AND A FLOWING SEA!" It was disturbing enough for the Spring to come along to instill nomadic impulses, but this clipper model is sufficiently realistic to implant the sea wanderlust in a hardened landlubber. This little masterpiece is the creation of Olaf Johnson, of No. 23 Crocker street, Somerville, who has just completed it after a year's toil. A piano maker by profession, he takes great pleasure in making clipper models.

JAMES J. BLAINE is Wisconsin's hiking Governor and has covered nearly every foot of the State on foot. He is happiest when he dons hiking togs and streaks for the open road.

THERE WERE NO STRINGS ATTACHED TO THE PRICE! This famous Stradivarius violoncello was recently sold in Paris for 103,400 francs. On its harmonious back are inscribed the signatures of many famous musicians of Europe. (Wide World.)

THIS BIZARRE FIGURE has perhaps caused more comment in Paris and Berlin than most of the political or sporting news. It is one of the fantastic dance figures created by Lotte Pritzel, called "Chinese Girl," and is exhibited in Berlin. (International News Reel)

PREMIER HARA'S ASSASSIN ON TRIAL! Konichi Nakaoka (right in prisoner's box) as he appeared while on trial for slaying the distinguished Premier of Japan. At his left is Y. Hashimoto, a government railway employe, who is charged with instigating the crime. (International News Reel)

BANISH GLOOM OF EPISCOPAL SERVICE

Change in Use of "Obey" and "Serve" in Marriage Ritual Proposed

"Some of the gloom is to be taken from the Episcopal marriage service." No longer need the [illegible] bride make reservations [illegible] lations with the prospective [illegible] groom regarding [illegible] books in the [illegible] "obey" and "serve" [illegible] suggested in the [illegible] fied by the [illegible] the Revision of the Book of Common Prayer [illegible] General Convention [illegible] in [illegible]

The changes [illegible] held in the [illegible] nized in the [illegible]

More [illegible]

The suggested [illegible] seen in the following [illegible] columns

Present Form	Proposed Change
Then shall the minister say unto the woman: N. Wilt thou have this man to thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony? Wilt thou obey him and serve him, love, honor and keep him in sickness and in health; and forsaking all others, keep thee only unto him so long as ye both shall live? The woman shall answer: I will.	N. Wilt thou take this man to thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy estate of matrimony? Wilt thou love him, comfort him honor and keep him in sickness and in health and forsaking all others, keep thee only unto him so long as ye both shall live? The woman shall answer I will.

The words "obey" and "serve" [illegible] the old ceremony were [illegible] what is known to [illegible] upon the literal rendering of St. Paul's command [illegible] husbands in all things.

Robert H. Gardner [illegible] ney of No. 322 Beacon street, member of the [illegible] of the Prayer Book, is an ardent supporter [illegible]

"We believe we [illegible] of the gloom out of the [illegible] marriage service," he [illegible] "Under modern conditions and with the changed [illegible] and changed view of the marriage [illegible] brought about by modern [illegible] seemed to us that [illegible] marriage service was [illegible] necessary."

Among the hundreds of other proposed changes in the old Prayer Book, Gardner [illegible] also has been thought of. The [illegible] tion of the marriage service [illegible] with the placing of the ring on the finger of the [illegible] "with all my worldly goods I thee endow" has been changed in the report to [illegible]

"It was the [illegible] in the commission [illegible] isting modern conditions [illegible] is absurd," said Gardner.

Present Form	Proposed Form
With this ring I thee wed and with all my worldly goods I thee endow. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen	With this ring I thee wed. In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Another change in the marriage service would [illegible] one of the concluding [illegible] now reads "that as Isaac and Rebecca lived faithfully together, so these persons may surely keep the vow and covenant betwixt them made."

Yet another change would the commission make. [illegible] minate the compulsory [illegible] marriage of the woman [illegible] make it possible for the minister to omit.

SIMPLE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get them out after they become hard. The calonite powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

PROSPERITY IS JUST AHEAD, WILLIS SAYS

Early Enactment of Tariff Law Predicted by Ohio Senator at Bangor

By the Associated Press.

Bangor, Me., April 6.—A protective tariff law must be enacted at the earliest possible moment if American workmen are to be employed, if American industry is to thrive and American standards are to be maintained, Senator Willis of Ohio declared in an address today before the Republican State Convention.

Senator Willis reviewed the accomplishments of the administration and charged that "holdover Democrats" had hampered Republicans in their effort to stabilize conditions. Before many weeks, however, he said a protective tariff law, based on the principles of Blaine and McKinley, would be on the Federal statute books.

The Republican party, he said, had checked extravagance, established a budget system, reduced taxes, lopped off appropriations and maintained American ideals. On this record of policies, he declared, "the administration of President Harding looks to the people of Maine for a vote of confidence and support."

The signs look better, he said, adding that "even the promise of a Republican tariff stimulates industry and starts factories.

"With the early enactment of the [illegible] prompt funding of the foreign [illegible] already provided for by law," he continued, "industrial conditions will continue to improve."

Workers at Woburn Plant Say Wages Have Been Cut 30 Per Cent.

Two hundred leather workers employed at the Thayer Foss tannery on Green street, Woburn, struck today as a protest against wage reductions which, their leaders say, average 30 per cent.

John T. Shea of [illegible], organizer of the Middlesex district of the Leatherworkers Union, said the men have been getting wage reductions by departments for [illegible] weeks and that [illegible] the factory had received a cut. These cuts averaged thirty per cent, he said, despite the fact that the [illegible]

Frank Sheerin, secretary of the Woburn Chamber of Commerce, will attempt to arrange an arbitration meeting between union leaders and company officials.

The New Washington Office Service

A NEW store for Girls and a new store for Little Folks, situated side by side, have emerged from our winter's labor.

Here in larger quarters, perfectly appointed as to fixtures and superbly ready as to merchandise, we welcome all the mothers of girls 6 to 14 years old, and of little tots up to 6.

While carpenters were busy we were searching out the most desirable Spring Dresses and Coats and Hats and Underwear that the markets afford, so that, when the time came there would be not one thing lacking in our readiness to serve.

And now that time has come. Easter but three weeks away is a fitting reason for the showing which is now being made. Mothers who have longed for simple, attractive and, above all, distinctively new clothing for their children will find here the very things they have wished for.

Good taste, Simplicity, Value have been byewords in all that we have done.

A—17.50. A checked gingham dress emphasizes the straight line vogue. It has an underskirt of organdie that shows through the panels of the skirt. Delightful touches of wool embroidery give contrasting color to the front of the frock. Sleeves end in block effect. A long moire belt passes through openings at the waistline. Sizes 12, 14 and 16 years.

B—5.50. It's a copy of an imported model—and you'll love it. Of fine blue or rose chambray, with contrasting piping, it has those little foreign touches that bring a pleasant change to the wardrobe of children and grown-ups alike. Sizes 2 to 6 years.

C—12.50. For wear in town comes this two-piece sleeveless dress and cape costume, in copen, green, orchid and scarlet. Sizes 8 to 14 years.

D—15.00. Polo cloth, cut circular, with arm openings, creates a cape that is charming for any dainty little miss. Sizes 8 to 12 years

Welcome to the Children's New Playground and Library

Where Boys and Girls May Read, Play or Listen to Stories While Mother Shops

ON the third floor, just off the Little Folks' Store, and in a small valley all its own, has been constructed a little cottage which belongs wholly to the children. One room, near the Barber Shop, is the library, and here are tables and chairs nicely regulated in size to suit the smallest and biggest who will come to find the books they love the best. Generous shelves hold all that is good in children's books, and they are at the service of those who wish to read.

The other room is a treasure house of fun. Here is the toboggan slide, the hobby horse and the sand pile. Here is room to romp and stretch one's legs. The many windows which flank two sides will give air and sunshine almost equal to the great outdoors. A fence prevents any accidents, however.

This cottage, so full of interesting things, is under the care of a woman who loves children and has made teaching them her life work. She can tell a story in a way to make one's breath come fast as the brave prince rescues the fair princess from the bad fairy—and she knows scores and scores of them. She, too, will see to it that the littlest children have their turn on the hobby horse in spite of the bigger ones.

All this is ready—ready and waiting for the girls and boys whose mothers bring them to The Shepard Stores.

R. I. SENATOR'S DIVORCE CASE SETTLED

Mrs. Alice T. Smith Gets Big Almony and Custody of Three Children

Providence, April 6.—The divorce suit brought by Mrs. Alice T. Smith against her husband Arthur T. Smith, president of the Rhode Island Senate, was settled today out of court.

Under the [illegible] pay his wife heavy alimony, the exact amount [illegible] was [illegible] and consented to his wife's custody of their three children.

It was understood that Smith was prompted to settle the case by knowledge that his wife intended to introduce highly sensational letters.

It also was said that she planned to present as witnesses private detectives who were ready to describe some [illegible] Smith [illegible] owned by Smith and at a number of Bay State road houses.

The [illegible] was set to start today. Settlement was reached at a conference between counsel.

Mrs. Smith, aside from being a beautiful society matron, is a leader in church affairs and president of the [illegible] Women's Christian Temperance Union.

One of [illegible] the trial, it is said, would have been testimony by local policemen to a midnight raid on a Broadway rooming house two years ago. When the officers burst into the place, it is alleged, Smith was found in a room with a pretty young woman known as Miss O'Day. The latter is said to have been clad only in a nightie.

Political pressure was supposed to have played a part in bringing about settlement of the suit.

MEDBURY

Says Never Worry About Not Having Room for the Children in the Bus--They'll Bounce Out Somewhere Along the Road

Everybody who has a job likes to make more of his position than it really amounts to. One man owned a sightseeing bus and he told his friends he was in the rubber business.

These buses are great money makers. They go so fast that you have to take the trip twice to see anythink once.

You go to a town and pay a dollar to see a lot of things which people who have lived there all their life wouldn't bother to look at.

The guy up in front of the bus hollers a lot of things through a megaphone which you can't understand. If you were able to understand him, they'd charge you a dollar more.

He doesn't even use good English, but for one buck you can't expect to get a professor of grammar.

He has twenty minutes of talk to deliver and if he can say it all in five minutes you can't blame him for wanting to get through early.

How can you expect to understand him when he doesn't know himself what he's saying?

The words just come to his lips and he opens his mouth and lets them out.

The only time his enunciation is clear is before he gets your dollar.

Some of the buses sell you a pictorial book for fifty cents. They crowd you in so closely that you can't see anything, but when you get home there is nothing to stop you from looking at the book.

You can see more of the city by listening to the speller than you can by making the trip.

He wastes more gas than the machine.

If you saw everything he tells you you are going to see you'd have to get somebody to help you look at it.

Every car has shock absorbers and you're one of them.

There's one thing about these buses. If you don't like the trip you can always ask for your money back. There's nothing to prevent you from asking for it.

HOLLIS DENIES 'LOVE EXILE' REPORT

States in Paris Interview His Divorce Is Legal; Will Return to U. S. With Bride

By Universal Service.

Paris, April 6.—Former Senator Henry Hollis, returning to Paris from Venice with his bride, characterized as "ridiculous" the reports that he is doomed to remain in Europe as a "love exile" from the United States.

He declared that he does not believe that his first wife has ever made any claim that his divorce, obtained in Sofia, is illegal.

"Such a report is ridiculous," he said. "We intend to visit America at the end of the coming Summer. If my former wife ever made the claim that my divorce was illegal, it was certainly before she was in possession of all the facts.

"My divorce is absolutely legal. It was obtained through the Council of the Methodist Church at Sofia after I had proved the length of time that my wife and I had been living apart.

"The same grounds would have sufficed anywhere in the world. The only reason that the previous appeal to the Paris courts was not admitted was my wife's refusal to accept the jurisdiction of the Paris courts. This is unnecessary in Bulgaria."

Hollis added that full details of the divorce, setting forth complete refutation of the claims it was not legal in the United States, were being forwarded to New York by mail.

RANGE OF HOME MADE RADIO RECEIVER CAN BE WIDENED

By A. B. HOAG.

For less than $50 it is now possible to put together a radiophone receiving set which will enable you to listen to the concerts from more distant stations, such as Newark, N. J., East Pittsburgh, Pa., and Springfield, as well as Medford.

By constructing such a set at home and hooking it up yourself you will be able to add other parts from time to time so that your set can be continually improved. Later articles in this column will deal with these additions.

Below is the diagram showing the proper hook-up for such a set.

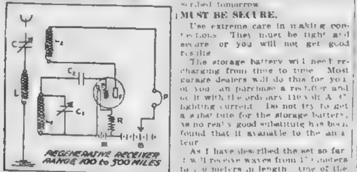

DIAGRAM OF HOOKUP.

Here is a list of the parts you will need. If you made up the crystal detector set that was described in this column last week, you will be able to use some of the parts you bought then in this set. The letters in parentheses refer to the diagram.

From 100 to 200 feet aerial wire, one dozen machine screws 3/4 inch, two small insulators for aerial, two 001 mfd variable condensers (C and C1), one honeycomb coil L-35 (L), two honeycomb coils L-[illegible] L1 and L2, one double headset Murdock phones (P), one .0005 mfd grid condenser and grid leak combined (C2), one six volt, 60-ampere hour storage battery (A), one 22½ volt dry battery (B), one 6 ohm rheostat (R), one vacuum tube detector, three elements shown D, E and F, ten feet No. 4 insulated ground wire, one vacuum tube socket, three single honeycombed coil adapters.

I have already explained the erection of the aerial, the lightning switch and the lightning ground. This is the same whether it is for a crystal detector set or a vacuum tube set such as the one I am describing. The lightning switch and ground are not shown in the diagram.

COILS SIDE BY SIDE.

In wiring this set the three coils, L1, L2 and L3 must be arranged side by side and from ½ to ¾ inches apart. L2 is not shown thus in the diagram because it would complicate the figure. Remember that the parts do not have to be in the same position that they occupy in the drawing as long as they are connected exactly as shown.

The rest of the parts may be laid loosely about on a table or wherever is convenient. The two variable condensers (C and C1) and the rheostat (R) will be used to tune the set, so that these should be arranged together near the phone.

The machine screws are a substitute for binding posts. In the tube adapter, which is practically a means for holding the tube and making connections, small holes will be found in place of binding posts. Thrust the machine screws through these, wrap a few turns of wire around the screw and tighten with the nut.

CONNECTIONS MARKED.

The three elements of a vacuum tube are represented in diagram by conventional designs. In the drawing above D indicates the filament, E, what is called the "grid," and F, what is called the "plate." The connections on the base of the tube are marked accordingly.

The tube itself looks somewhat like an electric light bulb, but the insides are much more complicated, and, incidentally, more expensive. Like electric light bulbs they have to be renewed from time to time. They cost $5 each, and are occasionally hard to get. Without being a hog it is wise to get more than you need.

The effect of the tube is similar to that of the crystal detector, but it is much more efficient. Amplification is impossible at present with a crystal detector, but is possible with a vacuum tube. The precise action of the tube will be described tomorrow.

MUST BE SECURE.

Use extreme care in making connections. They must be tight and secure or you will not get good results.

The storage battery will need recharging from time to time. Most garage dealers will do this for you, or you can purchase a rectifier and use it with the ordinary 110 volt A. C. lighting current. Do not try to get a substitute for the storage battery, as no really good substitute has been found that is available to the amateur.

As I have described the set so far it will receive waves from 175 meters to 600 meters in length. One of the features of this set is, however, that it can be modified to tune up to [illegible] meters so that trans-Atlantic messages can be intercepted. This is done by the substitution of larger honeycomb coils than those recommended above.

CAN INCREASE RANGE.

The range of the set can be increased up to 1,500 miles or more by the addition of two amplifying units at a cost of about $30. These units will be described in a later article together with the specifications for increasing the wave length.

Tomorrow I will explain the operation of this set, and its action. If you have any difficulty in putting it together or are puzzled by any detail, drop a line for the question box. Also let me know what luck you have with it.

Question Box for Radio Fans

Q.—Is it possible to increase the range of a small receiving set by changing a part or parts, or is it necessary to change the whole? Where can directions be obtained for constructing a set with a few hundred miles range? L. S., Rox[illegible]

A.—The range of a crystal detector cannot be enlarged. A vacuum tube set may be enlarged in range by the addition of amplifying units, which may be purchased all set up, or which may be set up at home. Today's article begins the instructions for making such a set as you suggest. This set can be enlarged in range by the addition of amplifying units as I have described.

Q.—How could I make a set at home large enough to receive Medford? Are three strands of wire twenty feet long as good as one strand sixty feet long? [illegible], Everett.

A.—I have described in this column the construction of a crystal detector set which would serve the purpose you describe. A strand sixty feet long is very much better than three twenty feet long. I doubt if the latter would work.

Q.—In receiving concerts by wireless is it necessary to have a wireless telephone or is the [illegible] set sufficient? Where is a good place to buy a set? [illegible] have four strands seventy [illegible] feet long [illegible] would equal 300 feet. Is it better sloping or on a level? M. L., Dover, N. H.

A.—Telephone and telegraph sets are similar. I am having a list sent you. The longer the aerial, up to 150 feet, the better. One wire is sufficient, but additional wires add only slightly to the efficiency of a receiving set. The aerial does [illegible].

Q.—Please tell me how much a receiving set would cost to hear Medford. Also would you have to have electricity in the house? R. J., Lowell.

A.—Such a set would cost around $30. Electric lights are a [illegible] rather than a help in amateur radio work.

BILL TO ASSIST LOAN SHARKS DEFEATED

Boston American and Credit Unions' Campaign Results in Committee Victory

The loan shark bill, seeking to boost the interest rate from 36 to 42 per cent a year on all small loans, was today reported by the [illegible] Committee on Legal Affairs. [illegible] against the [illegible] of the bill was waged by the credit unions of the State and in the columns of the Boston American.

Heads of the credit unions denounced the proposed increase as outrageous. The American Legion [illegible] it would form a credit union in every post in the State, if necessary, to protect the thousands of veterans who, returning from the war without jobs, have fallen prey to the sharks.

In answer to the loan sharks' plea that they need more profit, former Senator [illegible] Jackson Walsh said he has yet to see any loan agency going into bankruptcy or their owners into the poorhouses.

The Committee on Legal Affairs today voted to report "next annual session" on the bill. It is expected that the adverse report will be accepted in both branches of the Legislature without even a protest.

THE TAPLEY SHOEMAKER SHOP AT ESSEX, MASS. ONE OF THE FIRST IN AMERICA

This little shop is a Colonial shoemaking shop preserved intact, with benches and tools, just as the shoemakers left it. It is surprising what excellent work was turned out with simple tools and crude tanned leather. But pride of craftsmanship existed in Colonial days just as among shoemakers throughout America today.

"I'll stop for them tonight about half-past eight"

YOUR shoe repairman probably has from one to a dozen other pairs to be ready some time during the day.

Seldom do you catch him telling you that your individual job is not done.

If you found any flaw in the quality of his work, you would be indignant, and your shock of surprise would be quite as acute as your indignation.

* * *

It is his pride in the work he turns out that has led the responsible shoe repairman to adopt U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heels as a standard for quality jobs.

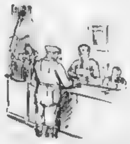
The requirements of a rubber heel are very simple. Appearance. Wear. Comfort on the foot.

But there is a science in making a rubber heel. The science of the U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heel is the deep personal knowledge of the country's oldest and largest rubber organization—the United States Rubber Company.

When it planned the U. S. Spring-Step Rubber Heel, it did so in the light of its long-standing responsibility to the American people for producing the utmost quality in everything made of rubber.

Ask for U. S. Spring-Step when you want rubber heels.

And remember—your repairman stocks them, not because he makes a bigger profit on them than on other heels, but because of his feeling of responsibility to you, his customer whom he wants to please.



Half-past eight—and your shoes are ready.

The only company in this country that grows its own rubber in any considerable quantity.

RIBBED GOLF CLUB IS HERE TO STAY

By JOCK HUTCHISON

I want to take this opportunity to get in a word about the ribbed clubs. The United States Golf Association has not gone so far as the British in the matter of ousting them from the game over here, and now that the Canadians are solid for them, it is a certainty that we will never bar them. And for the good of the game I feel that they should [illegible]

My back spin shot has been credited to these clubs and these clubs alone, but this is not really true. I played a back spin shot long before I ever heard of the ribbed club.

I used to practice this shot in my spare time and soon learned a way to make it with the old style, straight faced club. When the ribbed club came into vogue, I tried it for the same shot and found that I could make the shot so much easier that it seemed ridiculous to go back to the smooth faced club.

It was said by some one recently that the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, which controls golf in Great Britain, had barred the ribbed club just as soon as I won the British Championship. It was pointed out that the R. and A. [illegible] thing years ago when Walter J. Travis won the British amateur championship with the famous Schenectady putter.

* * *

The British did bar the putter after Travis made such an uncanny exhibition with it, but the rule forbidding the use of the ribbed club was passed some six months before the open championship at St. Andrews and it was decided to permit its use just for the tournament.

* * *

I have three clubs for approach [illegible] that are all ribbed faced clubs. I use them all for different degrees of the pitch, but as a rule I find [illegible] sticking [illegible] spade.

If there is a golfer in the land who has never used a "stopem" club as they are generally called, I would advise him to get one right away and get to work learning how to pitch to the green. There are times when it is advisable to use a run up approach, but to learn to play the pitch properly one should use it almost on [illegible] in order that he may become so accustomed to it that it is second nature with him.

Vardon and Ray, when over here two years ago, used a high pitch to the green which is called the ascending shot, if one is to use the terms of the expert. This ball is pitched very high with only a little cut. All of the American pros and most of the leading amateurs used a much lower shot, with more stop to it.

Most golfers think that because a shot is played high there is a lot of back spin on the ball, but this is not the case at all. The low shot carries the most as a rule, because it is very difficult to pitch very high and at the same time hit the ball as it should be hit.

* * *

I play the back spin shot with the arms almost entirely. The hands come in ahead of the club, not behind, as one might think. The ball is hit on the downward stroke to start the spinning motion.

* * *

The ascending shot is made in quite a different way. The ball is hit as the club starts up. The very bottom of the arc has been reached before the ball is started upward. Unless a cut has been imparted to the shot the ball is merely pitched into the air and permitted to act as it pleases.

In this case the ball always pleases to drop and then run very fast, much to the surprise of the player who thinks that because he has hit the ball high that he has imparted a backward twist to the sphere.

Playing the backspin shot is an art and no two golfers I know of play it exactly alike. One should study the secret of the spin on the ball, then practice it a little every day. It is a good idea to keep a ribbed club around the house and even in the house try a pitch to the bed or a chair. If one has a yard it is an easy matter to learn short and iron approaches.

The Harvard Stadium, already the scene of many world's record achievements, several of which have yet to be surpassed, may witness the registering of another international mark this spring should Leland Stanford University carry out its present plan of sending Glenn Hartranft to the 1922 Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championship meet in May.

Meredith's 440 yard world's record of 47 2-5 seconds, Norman Taber's one mile world's record of 4 minutes 12 3-5 seconds, Ned Gourdin's broad jump world's record of 25 feet 3 inches, Ralph Craig's and Don Lippincott's jointly held world records of 21 1-5 seconds for the 220 yard dash and Jack Wendell's 23 2-5 seconds world's mark in the 220 yard low hurdles, all of which records still stand, were made on the track or turf of the Cambridge horseshoe, and the American records, former world's records and intercollegiate and all collegiate records that have been clocked or measured by Stadium track and field officials are proportionately numerous.

Strangely, however, none of the past or present weight event marks has been scored on Stadium soil and as Glenn Hartranft's big specialty is [illegible] to [illegible] the Stadium [illegible]

When [illegible] the late Ralph Rose [illegible] the weight [illegible] weight [illegible] had been accomplished. As that record continued to withstand [illegible] powerful gentlemen as Paddy McDonald of the Irish American and the New York A. C., Larry Whitney of Dartmouth, Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin [illegible] conclusion seemed justified, and today the put registered by the giant Rose stands as the oldest field event world's record in the [illegible]

[illegible] now comes Glenn Hartranft to upset this conclusion.

Hoover of Duluth After Diamond Sculls

Duluth, Minn., April 6.—Walter Hoover of the Duluth Boat Club, amateur singles scull champion of North America, has entered his name for the Diamond sculls in the English Henley races on the Thames on June 30.

[illegible] Hartranft [illegible] are as follows:

One hundred yard dash, 10 seconds, 220 yard dash, 22 2-5 seconds; shot put, 50 feet [illegible] inch; discus throw, 147 feet 9 inches; Javelin throw, 179 feet 8 inches; Broad jump, 21 feet 10 inches.

Two of these marks, the shot put and discus throw, are new [illegible] Coast collegiate records.

BEST BANTAM BOXERS IN GAME BILLED TO BATTLE HERE

MONTREAL, EDWARDS, MOORE AND WHITE IN ALL STAR SHOW

By JACK CONWAY.

Danny Edwards, hailed by many fistic fans as a new George Dixon, will attempt to resume his victory habits when he collides with Roy Moore of St. Paul in one of the ten-round bouts at the Faneuil A. C.'s big bantamweight offering at Mechanics Building tomorrow night.

The Boxing Menu

Tonight — Dilboy Post, K. of C. Hall, Somerville—Amateur bouts.

Friday—Faneuil A. C., Mechanics Building—Young Montreal vs. Jabez White, ten rounds; Danny Edwards vs. Roy Moore, ten rounds; Abe Attell Goldstein vs. Johnny Sheppard, ten rounds; Paddy Owens vs Joey Miller, ten rounds.

St. Joseph's T. A. Society, Commercial Hall — Amateur bouts.

Naumkeag A. A., Salem—Johnny Brown vs. Mike Castle, ten rounds; Tippy Lowery vs. Billy Nelson, eight rounds; Eddie (White) Walsh vs. Larry Cross, six rounds; Soldier Carman vs. Charley Mack, six rounds.

Saturday—Riverton A. A., Chelsea Theatre — Amateur bouts.

Edwards, like Dave Shade, comes from the Pacific Coast. His home is at Portland, Oregon, and he was busy conquering bantamweights and featherweights while Shade was doing his work of destruction in the welterweight division.

Boston and New England fans have had few close-ups of this colored youth who can box and punch and do all the other things that make for fame and glory in the ring.

Edwards scored wins over Frankie Ryan, Chick Suggs and Abe Friedman and then lost to Young Montreal after a torrid battle. George Moore, Edwards' manager, avers his protege would have won over Montreal if it were not for an injured hand.

Moore Defeated Montreal in Worcester Bout

It can't be said that Edwards is to be pitted against an opponent of the set up variety. Moore is one of the toughest bantamweights in this land of hootch hunters and has swapped blows with most of the fast steppers among the ranks of the little fellows. He recently hopped up to Worcester, where he placed the skids under Montreal. He plans to carry the fight to Edwards and is of the opinion he carries too many guns for the youth from the distant West.

Young Montreal, Rhode Island favorite, is of the opinion his class as a boxer will enable him to win over Jabez White of Albany. It will be the old story of a boxer against a fighter and should furnish a lively bout. White is known to Boston fans for his twelve-round draw with Joe Lynch at the Fenway A. A. several years ago.

Sheppard Gets Chance to Prove His Real Ability

Johnny Sheppard, Woburn bantamweight, has been punching his way to wins over local opponents. Tomorrow night he will receive an opportunity to prove whether he is a headliner when he collides with Abe Attell Goldstein. The latter has clashed with most of the fast steppers in the bantamweight class and if Sheppard can win the decision he will be in a position to talk business with boys outside of New England.

Joey Miller, California, will show against Paddy Owens of Cambridge in the other ten-round bout.

Johnny Mahoney says it is an $11,000 show, which is setting a very high figure for Boston. But judging from the demands for reservations at the club's office at No. 39 Court street, the Faneuil Club will make a profit on this show despite its heavy financial risk.

Leo Flynn, who was formerly matchmaker for Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden, couldn't understand how Boston could put on such a big attraction. Mahony told Flynn that the latter doesn't realize that this is one of the best boxing centres in the country and that the fans always turn out in [illegible] when offered real [illegible].

* * *

The St. Joseph's T. A. Society has done more to foster amateur boxing than any other local club with the possible exception of the B. A. A. It is only natural that the West End organization should give its support to helping our novice boxers. At its tournament at Commercial Hall tomorrow night there will be two classes for novices, 1[illegible] and 117 pounds. This will give the kids without any experience an opportunity to display their wares.

There will also be tussles in the open classes at 112, 118 and 1[illegible] pounds.

Reservations may be secured at Room 12, No. 28 School street.

Dilboy Post to Stage Tournament Tonight

The Dilboy Post, which has been very active in the amateur field during the past few months, will stage another bang-up tournament at K. of C. Hall tonight.

Three Southern ring stars have entered the national amateur boxing championships which will be staged in this city on April 17 and 18. They are Jack Doyle, Shamrock A. C., New Orleans, Southern 112-pound champion; Al Pettingill, Y. M. Gym Club, and runner-up to Doyle in the Southern championships, and Al Ghiott, Y. M. Gym Club, Southern 118-pound champion.

PLAN A NEW GOLF CLUB AT LYNNFIELD

By FRED G. THAYER.

Just off the Newburyport Turnpike, on the Boston side of Lynnfield, lies a stretch of land, 150 acres in area. Its nature is of such a pleasing character that Donald Ross and Wayne Styles, golf architects, indorse it as a track most adaptable for a sporty golf course.

At any rate, forty enthusiasts in Lynn and vicinity, have enough faith in such a project to formulate plans for a definite line of action.

The plans of Styles call for an eighteen hole outline, nine of which should be playable by the Fall, if everything goes along with the same spirit that prevails now.

In Wakefield, Reading, Saugus, and Salem, all near Lynn, there are hundreds waiting an opportunity to affiliate with some golf club. The outlook for the success of such a club in this locality is beyond a question of a doubt.

Meadowbrook, Bear Hill, Bellevue, Tedesco, Salem and Kernwood clubs have long waiting lists and unless some new recreation grounds are found many will be the wailing hearts.

The next meeting of the golf organization will be on Monday, at Purdett Hall, when the recently appointed executive committee will report the progress made up to that [illegible]. It is expected some definite decision will have been formulated as to what the dues will be. It would not be improbable if the cost to the new members was reasonable and lower than would be expected.

Mansion Can Be Used for the Clubhouse

On this Hawkes' property is the colonial mansion of N. J. McCarthy, and it has been decided to make use of this for a club house. It should answer the purposes of the members for two years, at least until the organization and course get well under way.

There are twenty-two rooms which can be renovated at a small expense with the most up-to-the-minute appointments. The club house is but a twenty minute ride from the City Club and but twenty-five minutes from Central square. A local bus line from Lynn goes directly past the property.

It is interesting to chronicle that the old Hawkes' estate dates back to a land grant in 1626 and this is one of the most historic spots along the North Shore drives. The Saugus river runs by and through the grounds and some very beautiful water hazards are in prospect. As soon as all the frost is out of the ground, Architect Styles will proceed. The ultimate distance will be about 6,300 yards, as laid out at this time.

The natural fertilization and care given by [illegible] for three centuries adapt it for a project of this kind. Rolling hills and fertile dales, an abundance of foliage and plenty of water lend themselves to a variety in topography which will be hard to beat.

An approximated tabulation of distances for the first and ultimate second nine are as follows: 390, 1[illegible], 400, 285, 245, 375, 490, 245, 385—total of first nine 3,195; in—365, 170, 3[illegible]0, 41[illegible], 345, 525, 175, 415, 385—total last nine 3,180—or 6,375 yards for the eighteen holes.

Dorothy Clark—17-year-old juvenile film star, in her diary makes many girlishly naive admissions regarding Herbert Rawlinson. A chapter every day exclusively in the BOSTON DAILY ADVERTISER.—Advt.

CUMMINGS WILL STRENGTHEN FORE RIVER

Manager Says That His Team Will Defend State Cup Soccer Title

By ART CURLY.

The chances of the Fore River soccer team to successfully defend the State Cup are improving every day, according to Manager Menzies.

With Donald Cummings, who has been laid up with an injured foot, able to kick a ball once more, Menzies feels confident that his pet centre-forward can break through the great Abbot defence often enough to keep his team in the lead.

Cummings played with the Merry Hill Juniors, one of the best junior teams in Glasgow, before coming to this country. He is a hustling player and has strengthened the Quincy eleven a lot this season.

Cummings, on account of his recent disability was not picked to play last Saturday, but he will probably be in good condition for the [illegible] this week, in which case [illegible] teammates will feel more confident.

"Billy" Workman was picked to fill the pivotal position last week, but with Donald once more in shape, Bill will most likely go back to centre-half, with Lewis and Black two reliable old-timers, on either side.

"Jock" Davidson, the clever young goalie of the Braintree Welfares, has been signed to assist the shipbuilders in the State Cup competition, in case that anything should happen to "old reliable" Jimmy Lambie.

All the old-timers are showing lots of speed and class in practice and Menzies is sure that his charges will come out on top Saturday, thereby qualifying to meet the winner of the Falcos vs. Thistles in the final.

PAUL DOYLE WANTS TO FIGHT WITH DAVE SHADE

Paul Doyle, former New England welterweight champion, doesn't consider Dave Shade the greatest fighter in the world. Through his manager, Tony Palazolo, Doyle today issued a challenge to the Pacific Coast welterweight champion.

"Doyle wants to fight Shade," declared Palazolo. "He desires this match as he feels certain he can beat the fighter from the Pacific Coast.

"Shade beat Siegal because the latter is not fast and is not a good boxer. It would be a different story if Doyle, the greatest 142 pound fighter in the world, were pitted against the Leo Flynn entry. If Doyle gets a bout with Shade, he will defeat him easily."

BOSTON WHIRLWINDS AT WEYMOUTH FRIDAY

The Weymouth A. A. has added another attraction to its schedule. Friday night "Snappy" O'Connell and his Boston Whirlwinds will journey to Odd Fellows' Hall, East Weymouth, to complete Weymouth's home season. Gannon, White, Curtin, Slattery and Dwyer all residents of Weymouth, and Higgins of Brockton will make up the Weymouth team.

Saturday night Weymouth goes to Plymouth to play off a rubber game with the Plymouth A. A. Manager Moran announces that this game will complete the busiest season in professional basketball.

RICHARDS ON CARPET, FAILED TO SHOW UP

Richards, it is declared, failed to appear after entering the recent national indoor championships but instead took part in a tournament in Philadelphia.

GRUDGE BATTLE AT THE ARENA A. C. SHOW

A real grudge fight!

That's the verdict of the fans who know Young Donahoe and Barney McAtee, who clash in one of the ten-round bouts at the Arena A. C.'s show next Tuesday night.

Both boys come from the South End. They frequent the same "corner" and once battled for the right of selling newspapers at a particular spot. Each kid has a following And all the followers will be on hand to see Donahoe and McAtee settle their long feud in the ring.

The only thing these boys regret is that the affair is not to a finish. They are fearful lest they be unable to settle their differences in ten rounds.

The feature ten-session affair will bring together Joe Lynch, who fights Johnny Buff for the world's bantamweight title next month, and Terry Martin of Providence.

Jimmy Armato White of this city will box an opponent yet to be named in a third ten-rounder.

Tommy Nee of South Boston and Ruby Lavigne of Lewiston, Maine, will box six frames.

KANALY GETS SIX MORE ENTRIES FOR MARATHON

Six new names were added to the list of prominent starters in the approaching B. A. A. Marathon run, when Tom Kanaly opened his mail.

Two of the six are names familiar to local long-distance enthusiasts, one being that of Clifton Mitchell of St. Christopher Club, New York, who finished eighth in the Ashland-to-Boston run in 1920 and was thirteenth to cross the line last Patriot's Day. The other is that of Victor McAuley, former Dorchester Club star, who has been a figure in local road races for several years. McAuley is now residing in Winsor, N. S., and no longer wears the colors of the Dorchester organization.

In addition to this pair the following entries were filed: Claud H. Eldridge, Haverhill Y. M. C. A.; Joseph Clement, Framingham A. C.; Frank Martins, Christopher A. C., New York, and Charles W. Rapp, Mohawk A. C., New York.

AMATEUR RING STARS SHOW AT DILBOY POST

One of the longest lists of amateur bouts held in this section is scheduled for tonight at the regular monthly show of the George Dilboy Post, V. of F. W., at K. of C. Hall, Somerville.

[illegible] night's show promises to be the banner one of the season. Four classes are on the card—108, 125, 135 and 147.

The winners of the finals in each class will be sent to Worcester at the expense of the Dilboy Post, and will represent the organization at the Worcester Veterans of Foreign Wars show to be held the latter part of this month.

Judging from the advance sale of tickets, another capacity crowd will be on hand early [illegible] admission. At the last show hundreds were turned away, despite the fact that the hall has an extra large seating capacity.

LONDOS-ABERG IN BATTLE FOR CALZA BOUT

Italian Champion Here to Challenge Winner of G. O. H. Match Tonight

MAT BOUTS TONIGHT.

Jim Londos vs. Fred Aberg.
Cyclone Burns vs. Frank Lurich.
Nick Kavaras vs. Kid Wallace.

Peeved by some persistent rumors that he was dodging certain rival wrestlers, George Calza, the Italian heavyweight mat star, is in Boston today to set aside all stories and to challenge the winner of the Londos-Aberg match at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Calza came to town against the advice of his physician, and has notified the Howard management that he will be on the stage tonight to watch his rivals work and to issue a personal defi to either or both men for a [illegible] match at a future date.

Londos, the Greek champion, is confident that he will win over Aberg as he is anxious to get a match with Calza, but the young [illegible] is also in line for some big line bouts and a hard fought battle is looked for. The match is to a finish, best two in three.

The semi-final brings together Cyclone Burns versus Frank Lurich, and a whirlwind bout should result.

The curtain raiser is between Nick Kavaras, the Greek lightweight, and Kid Wallace of Lynn.

GOOD CHANCE FOR PURES TO TRAIN FOR NATIONAL

The St. Joseph T. A. S. amateur tournament tomorrow night is the [illegible] before the annual national championships which will be held at the Arena April 17 and 18. It will give the simon pure performers their final opportunity for getting into shape for the title contests.

Entries close tonight with Frank Hannon, 95 Cambridge street.

ENGLISH HIGH HAS ONLY ONE VETERAN IN THE BASEBALL SQUAD

By FRED C. LANE

Veterans of the 1921 English High baseball [illegible] far between when Coach Fred Murray had his candidates [illegible] first practice of the season today. A[illegible] is Captain Steincutter, around whom Coach Murray [illegible] 1922 organization.

The long indoor track schedule that English High recently completed has held up the battery candidates who are accustomed to early Spring practice in the gymnasium. English High is fortunate in always having plenty of material with which to build a team.

The coach plans to hold daily workouts just so long as the good weather holds out. The Strandway will be the stamping ground of the Blue and Blue athletes.

Coach Fred O'Brien has been absent from Latin School for the past three days, because of throat trouble. A speedy recovery is wished this popular coach from both students and friends.

Brockton High Plans Busy Track Season

Word has gone out that Brockton High will be represented on the cinder paths this Spring with a strong team. The rapid advancement that the baseball and basketball teams made in the past year, aroused much interest with the student body.

The new Keith's Memorial Field, which cost $300,000, is laid out to handle all sports.

Coach E. Marion Roberts is training 100 candidates for a busy season on the paths. Meets have been arranged with Rindge Tech, Quincy, Newton, Harvard Interscholastic and the Southeastern Massachusetts meet [illegible] Fairhaven.

Schoolboy Coaches Oppose Change in Rowing Course

The proposed change in course for the schoolboy boat race, made by Coach Arthur Matthews of Huntington School, does not meet with the approval of the other coaches. He suggests that the boats finish beyond the Harvard bridge.

They say that the skeletons of one or more shells would adorn the [illegible] of the bridge if such a plan were carried out. Schoolboy coxswains, with a few exceptions, are youngsters who are not to be relied upon to steer a costly boat between two arches of a bridge while racing.

The outdoor track season at Dorchester High will get under way soon. A schedule is being arranged by the faculty manager who would like to hear from any suburban or city high school. Brockton High could take advantage of this offer.

Boston Latin and Milton Academy will play off the schoolboy baseball [illegible]

In one thing
Civilization has progressed.
We kill time better
Than our forefathers did.
And the fact
That the average family
Lives better today
Is mute evidence
That it pays.
Years ago
Spare time was used chiefly
To look at picture albums
To take a walk
To quarrel with the neighbors
To play euchre
Or ride on crowded
Street cars.
And a man's idea
Of dressing in his spare time
Was going around
Minus a collar and tie.
Today America has learned
The art of loafing gracefully
And better still
Has learned how to loaf
In such a way
As to go back to work
With enough increased pep
To make up for lost time.
Not a little part
Of the increased efficiency
Of our periods of rest
Has come from the fact
That we have learned how
To dress the part.
The automobile and
The soft collar shirt—
The lure of the links and
The golf suit—
Our beautiful park systems
And soft toe golf shoes—
All these make days off
Something to be Looked forward to
Instead of dreaded.
Men may work shorter hours
But they get more done—
Men may kill more time
But they "live" longer—
So all in all,
We, for one,
Thank our lucky stars
America has learned
The Art of Killing Time
The RIGHT way.
WE THANK YOU.

[illegible] later he [illegible] that [illegible] been the ideal [illegible] instead of the fashion plate [illegible] who seemed to have a strange hold on Prudence Cole's [illegible] not appreciate it enough to win her.

During the week that followed [illegible] on the subjects of the charades but eclipsing the charades [illegible] Miss Prudence Cole and the part [illegible] would take and how she would [illegible]

That young [illegible] basking a little more in the sunlight of Henry's [illegible] that [illegible] had found the road to perfect happiness and her [illegible] loomed large on her horizon.

[illegible] charades arrived with the largest attendance ever recorded in the ballroom of the Haven Hotel. An impromptu stage had been erected and the guests were [illegible] as to what word had been chosen.

"I do hope [illegible] to guess," said one matron. "My [illegible] works fast after a [illegible]"

Mrs. Garrison had high hopes of Prudence [illegible] referring to the key word of the charades suggested that it must be very simple.

"Why [illegible]" asked the self-possessed society leader.

"My dear, [illegible] that simple [illegible] girl of your [illegible] taking part."

Mrs. Garrison [illegible]

Henry and Amy passed. "Let's sit up nearer," said Amy. "I think I'm going to have a good laugh and I don't want to miss anything."

The appearance of Roevin on the stage was a signal for silence.

He bowed to the [illegible]

"The word you are asked to guess is a word of two syllables. The first [illegible] the first syllable, the second pantomime [illegible] the whole word."

His exit was [illegible] lights out the curtain [illegible] and the stage set for the first pantomime was brought into vivid relief.

A charming little chalet occupied one corner of the stage; a ladder led to a balcony, from the window of which a lovely Pierrette looked down upon a starlit scene.

From the [illegible] Pierrot [illegible] for his lady love [illegible] but [illegible] he helped her to escape by way of the ladder, and pausing, [illegible] vowed eternal love [illegible] the two, silently winked an eye as much as to say that all was well with the world.

And Prudence Cole was the Pierrette; could this be the little Quaker girl they all had thought so sweet but rather plain? As the curtains shut out the [illegible] Pierrette and the lights revealed the audience [illegible] of the pantomime.

"Do you get it, Henry?" asked Amy Tillson, a little abashed [illegible] the ease and grace with which her rival had carried through the impersonation.

"It's 'eye' all right," ventured Tommie—"the eye of the moon, isn't it?"

"I guess you're right, Tommie, [illegible] all Greek to me, anyway. Here's the next."

Again darkness, and this time [illegible] stage revealed a Christmas scene: a tree decorated in [illegible] fashion, sparkled with a [illegible] and [illegible] oddities. And [illegible] on a small box sat a doll [illegible] white, her hat edged with white fur and a white fur wrap falling from her shoulders.

On her feet sandals prettily tied and in her hands a muff of the same fur as the wrap. Her golden ringlets hung low.

Sprawled at full length on the floor was a toyland man in a gingham dress, uncouth shoes and grotesque gloves. His head was supported on his elbow and his eyes were raised in adoring fixity to the fair face of the doll.

A toy soldier in kilts stood near by, and, shouldering a musket, a French grenadier watched motionless. Then the characters came to life and under the glistening decorations of the Christmas tree they bowed and scraped and did their little tricks. Into the box on which the doll had sat went the jack-in-the-box stuffed down and closed in. In awkward attitudes the kiltie and the clown made love to the girl with the ringlets and in pantomime they moved and made themselves understood, until the magic moment for silence came again and they found themselves once more lifeless things, the semblance of the creatures they were supposed to be.

A murmur of approval ran through the audience as the lights again came up and once [illegible] guessing was the order of the evening.

Mrs. Garrison, more and more satisfied with the showing her protegee was making, confessed herself unable to hit on the word of two syllables. And yet it was not hard to guess, her companion, more quick-witted, suggested that undoubtedly the first pantomime represented "Eye" and the second "[illegible]" and still Mrs. Garrison could make nothing of it.

As the third charade was to represent the complete word she did not trouble to puzzle, and the speedy darkening of the room riveted all eyes again on the pantomime.

The first two scenes were simple, but the last was a fit crown to [illegible]. It represented a [illegible] of Oriental splendor such a court as the ancient queens of Egypt might have known or Zenobia might have boasted in the zenith of her glory.

Seated on a raised dais far back on the stage, Prudence Cole, arrayed in a corsage of glittering pearls, neck and arms bare, feet in sandals and gossamer gown shimmering with gems, revealed a figure such as Diana might have boasted.

On her head a barbaric ornament like a great heart, point upward, was fastened by a band of jewels around her forehead.

Slaves bearing fruit and offerings flanked the throne and a bowing priest, clad in a robe of barbaric splendor, made obeisance.

Toward the front of the stage other figures arranged in a circle gazed with awe at the majestic occupant of the throne.

And then the figure moved, rose and with undulating motions received further evidences of the devotion of the slaves.

It was plain that little Prudence Cole of Pottstown was the queen of the scene and as the curtains closed and the lights again flashed on the astonished audience there was an instant outburst of acclaim for the little girl who had carried off the honors of the evening.

To Amy's questions Henry Garrison seemed for the moment deaf. He was wondering where his eyes had been since the arrival of Prudence.

Behind the scenes Roevin was clasping his co-conspirator by the hand. "You were a treat—you were wonderful, but a word of warning—go to bed and to sleep—let the society seals do the barking—you understand."

Advice which Prudence followed. Certainly there was plenty of comment, matrons besieged Mrs. Garrison. "My dear, I didn't realize what a talented and beautiful girl your little protege is."

And again: "Oh, my dear, I'm afraid you've been hiding Miss Cole under a bushel—isn't she lovely?"

And Tommie? Gone from his heart was the picture of Amy Tillson and installed therein instead the vision of Prudence Cole.

When a Girl Marries, A Serial By Ann Lisle

(Copyright 1922 King Features Syndicate Inc.)

SO I trotted off meekly for the [illegible] the black she was still waiting for Sheldon [illegible] as I was climbing the stairs to my place of business a strange thought came to me. Suppose Evvy was on her way out to try to get into communication with Valerie Crosby, the woman who'd been with Sheldon Blake when he went to his death. None of us had heard from Val Crosby since [illegible] departure from Dreamwood. [illegible] had sent me two or three [illegible] picture postals and I'd a letter from Aunt Mollie [illegible] at Christmas time. Apart from those—silence.

Thinking of the Coin

Strangely enough I found myself thinking of the [illegible] Lane had given me with the charge that [illegible] send it to the [illegible] where he was taking his scattered and [illegible] Val. And two things stood out in my mind. I couldn't send that message if I would, for it was [illegible] Virginia's safe at Dreamwood. But even if it were in my power to [illegible] Lane and [illegible] was great. Evvy's pleas for Val would stir me [illegible] on the big brown bear to give any part of the strength which poor [illegible] Valerie so tremendously and tragically needed.

[illegible] having mounted the top stair—I opened the door of my office and sailed in with the feeling of uplift I always got from seeing that sign on the door: "A. L. Harrison, Advertising Consultant." Miss May looked up across her typewriter [illegible]

"Good morning, Mrs. Harrison, it's the first of the [illegible] and we've a frightful lot of bills. Most of them say five per cent. off for cash.

"I suppose [illegible] as well pay all at once and get our discounts."

"[illegible]" [illegible] waving [illegible] greeting. "I'd have to sign the checks as I've kept forgetting to give you power of attorney. But you make [illegible] out [illegible] per cent. And with what we [illegible] we'll try to [illegible] over the [illegible] firmly established [illegible] same sort [illegible] to our clients."

"Of course we couldn't," agreed Miss May. "But it [illegible] seem a shame to [illegible] money for [illegible] which wouldn't [illegible] all if [illegible] give you [illegible] or whatever [illegible]"

[illegible] rates to a few magazines which hadn't replied to my letters. The Yelda [illegible] asked me to come over [illegible] about some [illegible] advertising [illegible] under consideration. So after I had attended to all the immediate office [illegible] I started toward the door.

"Mrs. Harrison," called Miss May in a troubled voice, "may I stop you for a [illegible]"

"[illegible]" I said. [illegible] and it's [illegible] just three doors away around the corner. So I'll be down [illegible] in a jiffy and I'll get there long before [illegible] expect me."

Miss May [illegible] what was definitely [illegible] that she was speaking [illegible]

"[illegible] pay [illegible] enough. I [illegible] have plenty of reserve funds. You see, the bank balance is low. We're short several hundred dollars of being able to pay our bills."

I [illegible] back from the doorway and made my way to my desk. I was afraid to trust myself on my feet for I didn't want Miss May to guess what a blow she'd just dealt me.

When Miss May told me how far short we were of the funds necessary to pay our month's bills I [illegible]. Then [illegible] I recalled that I [illegible] to fall back on. This was the rent for my apartment.

Hold Up the Check

"Hold up the checks until the fifth," I suggested serenely. "I've some payments on interest outside [illegible] which ought to be in by that date. And even if we don't [illegible] the tenth [illegible] will be [illegible] enough to create a bad impression. Now I think I'd better hurry down to the Yelda Importing Company. And in the meantime there's nothing in the world to worry about, my dear."

As I left the office I wondered why I'd made such a point of that, and whatever I'd been trying to impress Miss May or myself. Dismissing all worries from my mind, I hurried over to the garage, ordered out Evvy's blue car again and drove down to my client's office. With only a preliminary moment or two of red tape, I was ushered into the private office of Mr. Rockhill, the young president referred to me by Max Hoadley as "dang swank."

To remove rust from metal take a small quantity of light garden soil, sift to free it of grit, mix with a little paraffin, and rub the metal well. Cleaning old pewter in this way is most successful.

To remove whitewash from carpets damp the spots with a mixture of a teaspoonful of ammonia in one gallon of warm water.

Save old corks, for though they may not be fit for their original purpose they are extremely useful in making a low fire burn brightly.

TOTS' EASTER CLOTHES

CHARMING SUGGESTIONS

By Rita Stuyvesant

FOR Easter there are many charming suggestions for the little girl. The child from two to four would look well in a cunning coat of crepe de chine, fashioned from a yoke, and lined with white China silk. Such lovely colors as peach, orchid, tea rose, periwinkle blue and pearl gray are used and a [illegible] bonnet is worn to match. The bonnets are made of crepe de chine with an inside facing of georgette picoted and pleated, and finished with dainty ribbon rosettes.

Henna colored canton crepe makes an attractive outfit for a child of five. The coat is double-breasted, with small gray bone buttons, and lined with gray crepe de chine. A thin interlining is also used to give "body" and warmth to the garment. The hat is made over a small buckram frame of the henna crepe with a long sash ends hanging at the left side. Gray suede pumps and socks complete the costume. This could be copied in any becoming shade.

For sport wear the child of six or eight will appear well in a semi-circular cape of tweed or homespun in rose, blue, gray, brown or tan, with fetching tam to match. These capes are made with arm slits and a high military collar buttoned close about the throat. A lining may be used or one may use the plaid reversible materials that are so smart this Spring.

If you do not care for the cape for your young daughter, a top coat well tailored of the tweed or homespun will be serviceable and may be completed at no great expense if made at home. Let the tailor do the buttonholes and slit pockets if you do not attempt them yourself. A hat to match may be made from a pattern.

Strictly tailored topcoats are shown for the little girls as well as for their older sisters, the flappers and even the boys' shops are selling to little girls whose taste runs toward swagger togs. Polo coats of camel's haircloth and plaid wool box coats of a light weight are among the smartest offerings for Easter time.

Corrected

A learned professor visiting a friend's household, found his host's son one afternoon settled in the library with a sheet of paper before him and a pencil clasped in his fist. Looking over the youngster's shoulder, the visitor saw that he was making pictures. "Well, Albert," he asked gently, "are you drawing an engine?" Slowly the child looked up and replied, "It would take a very strong boy to draw an engine, but I am making a picture of a locomotive."

Stocks Advance in Boiling Market; Money Rises to 5%; Exchange Lower

FINANCE and BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

There's something extremely alluring about the idea of making money more plentiful by simply printing more paper money. Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison and some others who have attained great eminence in their own fields, have fallen victims to the delusion that prosperity can be insured by getting the money printing presses to work overtime. This beautiful theory has captivated many minds, and those of us who have tried to explode the idea have drawn upon our heads many protests and scoldings and charges that we are hard-headed sinners, in league with the bankers and capitalists and other "malefactors of great wealth," whose favorite sport is supposed to be grinding everybody else into poverty.

* * *

The sober truth is that governments don't and can't create a single dollar of wealth. If they could create wealth, if they could create an unlimited quantity of money that was worth anything, why should they push their hat in below the nose of every citizen and demand that he contribute something for their support?

* * *

Russia adopted the theory that the more paper money printed by the government the better off all the people would become. Today you and I and other American taxpayers have had to put our hands in our pockets and pay for the sending and distributing of grain to the starving millions of the once proud Russian empire.

* * *

Various other European countries adopted similar tactics, from necessity rather than choice, in most instances. The consequence is that those countries that poured out the greatest quantity of paper money are today the worst off. The countries that are best off today are those countries that adhered to the soundest possible banking and currency policies, the best example being, of course, the United States and Great Britain.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, April 6.—Wheat developed firmness during the early hours, but hard spots were hard to maintain, selling exceeding buying on the breaks. Pressure was not persistent, however. The weather forecast was for generally unsettled conditions and colder temperatures. Trade in corn was fairly active. Offerings were light in the pit and scattered buying by shorts and commission houses boosted prices early.

Elevtors bought July oats against sales of May at 2⅛ off.

Noon prices were: Wheat—May, 1.39⅝, up ⅝; July, 1.19, up ⅞; Sept., 1.12⅝, up ⅞. Corn—May, 58⅝, up ⅝; July, 61⅞, up ⅝; Sept., 64⅝, up ⅛. Oats—May, 36⅝, up ⅛; July 39⅛, up ⅝; Sept., 40⅛, up ⅛. Lard—Sept., 11.37. Ribs—July, 10.62.

MEXICAN PETE AT NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

Features Remarkable Trading in New York; Profit-Taking Follows Broad Upswing

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

At the close of the New York market most stocks were showing gains. But realization sales had some effect upon rails, steels, motors, tires and many other issues. Mexican Petroleum was the particular feature of today's market. At its highest it was up 6 points at 130⅛, a high for the year. Trading was of more magnitude than for any 1922 to date, approximating a million and a half shares. It has been a million-share market every day this week.

Among strongest issues were Electric Storage Battery, Pan American, Reading, Norfolk and Western, Canadian Pacific, B. R. T., Bethlehem B and General Asphalt. At their highest they were up from one to more than four points. Stocks to close about 1 point off were General Electric, Computing Tabulating and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Mexican Petroleum closed at 130⅛, its highest for the day.

The opening was distinguished by remarkable activity which continued during the first hour, sales for the period aggregating almost half a million shares. The volume of business, in fact, had not been equalled for several years. Trading slackened but little in the second hour and held at about as great a pace over midday and in the afternoon. Gains during the forenoon in some instances exceeded four points. More than a score of stocks sold at their highest for this or several years.

High records were established by Allied Chemical and Davison Chemical. More public interest in the market now exists than has been known in nearly two years, according to reports. Trading remains mostly professional, however.

There was a reaction, due to profit taking, in the last hour. Many issues then sold at their lowest for the day. But the market showed surprising power of absorption under such pressure. Trading was as broad as it was active. One statement reads: "Wall Street has seen many enthusiastic outbursts on side of rising prices since present upswing started, but this demonstration surpassed in breadth and volume anything yet experienced."

Call money opened at 4½ per cent., but moved up to 5 per cent. late in the session. Foreign exchange rates ruled a little lower.

Market Became More Normal

By W. S. COUSINS.
Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, April 6.—After the bullish and buoyant enthusiasm of the first hour, in the course of which an extraordinary heavy sale of stocks was recorded, the stock market settled back to something approaching normal conditions. There was no deviation, however, from the upward trend of stock prices, though it was inevitable that profit taking should make its appearance.

The first group wants to buy back the stocks which they sold lower down while the shorts are facing the necessity of covering up at losses which are growing larger instead of smaller. The bulls are, meanwhile, strongly in the saddle.

Mexican Pete swung forward in buoyant fashion again today, selling at 127⅝ for another two-point gain. Since touching 115 ten days ago the stock has moved forward nearly thirteen points.

Trend Still Upward, But Bonds Less Active

By MUNROE ROBERTS.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas adjustment 5s were strong and active up ⅝ to 53¾. Local traction bonds were inclined to be heavy. Mexican bonds were again strong. Swiss 8 per cents. were also higher.

$14,000,000
CZECHOSLOVAK REPUBLIC
8% SECURED EXTERNAL SINKING FUND GOLD LOAN OF 1922
Due April 1, 1951.
Part of An Authorized Issue of $50,000,000 or £10,000,000
Coupon Bearer Bonds in Denominations of $1000, $500, and $100

The present issue will consist of $14,000,000 Dollar Bonds in New York, £2,800,000 Sterling Bonds in London, to be issued by Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Ltd., N. M. Rothschild & Sons, and J. Henry Schroder & Co., and £500,000 Sterling Bonds to be issued in Amsterdam by Messrs. Hope & Co.

Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Not subject to redemption before May 1, 1932, except for the Sinking Fund as stated below. The entire issue outstanding, but not any part, will be redeemable at 108% and accrued interest, at the option of the Government after May 1, 1932, on giving three months' notice. Principal, interest and premium payable in New York City in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any Czechoslovak taxes or duties, present or future, and payable in time of war as well as in time of peace, and whether the holders of the bonds be subjects of a friendly or hostile state.

The Czechoslovak Republic is one of the succession states of the former Austro-Hungarian Monarchy and was officially recognized by the Treaties of Versailles, St. Germain and Trianon which it signed as one of the Allied and Associated Powers.

The bonds are to be redeemable by means of a cumulative annual sinking fund of 1% to be applied semi-annually to the purchase of bonds under par, or to drawings at par should the bonds be unobtainable under par, the first redemption by lot taking place October 1, 1923.

The authorized issue is secured by a first specific charge on the receipts from the Customs Duties and on the net profits of the Tobacco Monopoly, which together in 1921 yielded Kr. 1,815,500,000, and for 1922 are estimated to yield Kr. 1,246,000,000 which at the rate of 1¾ cents is equivalent to $21,812,000.

The Czechoslovak Republic has undertaken to pay weekly, for remittance to Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Ltd., London, at least 1-52nd part of the total annual requirements for the service of interest and sinking fund of the loan. Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Ltd., are to remit to New York a proportionate part of these weekly payments applicable to the Dollar Bonds.

All drawn bonds and matured coupons shall be accepted by the Czechoslovak Government at their full face value at the then current rate of exchange in payment of customs duties.

It is to be provided in a "General Bond," which is to be deposited with Messrs. Baring Brothers & Co., Ltd., that if at any time it may be necessary or expedient to obtain the sanction of the bondholders in respect to any matter in connection with the rights of the holders of the bonds of this loan, they may, by publication in two London, two New York and two Amsterdam newspapers, convene a general meeting of the bondholders, to be held in the City of London, upon thirty days' notice, and the decision of the holders of a majority in nominal value of bonds present at the meeting, either in person or represented by proxy, shall be binding upon all bondholders, but such majority must be comprised of not less than 50% of the Sterling Bonds and not less than 50% of the Dollar Bonds outstanding.

Until the liability for the debts of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire shall have been settled by the Reparations Commission, it is not possible to state the exact amount of the outstanding National debt, but in no case will the debt including the present loan exceed $53. per head of population, calculating the exchange at 1¾ cents. As soon as the liability for the debts of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire shall have been settled by the Reparations Commission, the Czechoslovak Government will immediately make necessary arrangements to take over definitive service of such proportion of these debts as may be assigned to them.

By the various Peace Treaties, the State has acquired territory of over 140,000 square kilometers. In area it is, therefore, nearly as large as England and Wales, with a population of over 13,500,000, and in this area are included about 75% of the principal industrial centers of the late Austro-Hungarian Empire.

The Government of the Czechoslovak Republic has the unqualified sovereign right to pledge its above receipts for the service of this Loan. Having been recognized as one of the Allied and Associated Powers, it is not subject to the control which the Reparations Commission has the power to exercise over the state revenues or assets of ex-enemy countries.

The above has been taken from the loan contract and from a letter from Prime Minister Edouard Benes, to which letter reference is made for further information and copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned. As all documents have been received by cable the within is subject to correction.

The Undersigned Will Receive Subscriptions for the Above Bonds, Subject to Allotment at 96½ and Accrued Interest to Date of Delivery.

At the offering price, the bonds will yield over 8.30% to maturity

Application will be made to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application, to allot a smaller amount than applied for and to make allotments in their uncontrolled discretion. The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the completion of their purchase and approval of their counsel. Interim Receipts will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted pending the receipt of the engraved bonds.

Facts on the Coal Situation

Correspondence between President B. M. Clark, of The Association of Bituminous Coal Operators of Central Pennsylvania, and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis:

Indiana, Pa., April 1, 1922.

HON. JAMES J. DAVIS,
Secretary of Labor,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Davis:

My attention has been called to an article in the public press, reputed to be written by you exclusively for Universal Service, wherein you state as follows:

> "It has been my steady purpose, as Secretary of Labor, to be fair to both sides in any trade dispute laid before me. In that spirit of fairness I am obliged to say that, in this dispute in the soft coal industry, the miners have been willing to meet and confer. Most of the operators likewise have been willing. A few important operators have refused to confer, and so have kept the entire number from the necessary united action.
> "I have always found that if the two parties to a trade dispute get together, and talk it over, they can always work out a satisfactory settlement and maintain peace. I also contend—and every good American will agree—that any set of men who sign a contract or agreement are morally bound to carry it out to the letter."

You make the statement that you want to be fair to both sides, which I believe to be true, and, therefore, assume that when you make the statement, "In that spirit of fairness I am obliged to say that, in this dispute in the soft coal industry, the miners have been willing to meet and confer," is because you did not know the real facts concerning the Central District of Pennsylvania, and I, therefore, believe it my duty in the interest of fair play to make a statement of the facts, with the request that you give these facts the same publicity as was given to your statements contained in the public press under date of March 30th and April 1st.

I am President, and have been for a number of years, of the Association of Bituminous Coal Operators of Central Pennsylvania, which has functioned solely for the purpose of negotiating, concluding and executing scale agreements with the United Mine Workers of America, District No. 2, which has a membership of union miners within the district varying from time to time from 40,000 to 60,000. The members of the Operators Association are employers of union labor and have through its association met in conference with the officials and scale committees of the United Mine Workers of America of District No. 2 and successfully negotiated and concluded wage scale agreements for about twenty-three years. These contracts have only applied to the Central District of Pennsylvania, which district has never been a member or took part in the negotiations of scale agreements in what is commonly known as the Central Competitive Field, consisting of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and the Pittsburgh District of Western Pennsylvania.

On March 6, 1922, I, as President of the Association, wrote to Mr. John Brophy, President of the United Mine Workers of America of District No. 2, at Clearfield, Pa., as follows:

> "Please advise me at once what date will suit for conference of our respective scale committees for the purpose of negotiating a scale effective April 1, 1922, to April 1, 1924. It is the desire of the operator members of our association for as early a conference as possible."

No written reply was received to this letter, but on March 17, 1922, Mr. John Brophy in person advised me that the United Mine Workers of America scale committee for District No. 2 would not meet with our scale committee for the purpose of negotiating a scale agreement effective April, 1922, until after a settlement had been effected between the United Mine Workers of America and operators of the Central Competitive Field, and that the union miners of this district would strike or cease to work on April 1st.

The United Mine Workers of America of District No. 2, therefore, refused to enter into negotiations for a new scale agreement contrary to the customs and precedents carried on between employers of union labor and its employees for a period of over twenty years, and further declared a strike April 1st which is now in full force and effect in this district, all of which is in direct violation of the contract bearing date April 26, 1920, between the Association of Bituminous Coal Operators of Central Pennsylvania and the United Mine Workers of America, District No. 2, effective from April 1, 1920, to March 31, 1922. Rule 25 of said agreement provides, in part, as follows:

> "In the event of a new scale agreement not having been signed on or before March 31, 1922, then and in that event the U. M. W. of A., District No. 2, will continue all men in mines regularly at work under the wages and conditions of this agreement for an additional thirty days after the date on which the Scale Committee of operators and miners hold their first meeting for the purpose of negotiating a scale to succeed this present scale. On reaching an agreement to succeed this present contract the wages paid by the operators to the miners, dating from April 1st, 1922, for such portions of the thirty days' work as extended beyond April 1st, 1922, shall be those that are agreed to in the next contract."

I most respectfully submit to your spirit of fairness whether or not the union miners of District No. 2 have been willing to meet and confer with the operators, their employers, and whether you believe that the set of men who signed our contract or agreement are morally bound to carry it out to the letter. I contend that the United Mine Workers of America, District No. 2, have repudiated the doctrine of collective bargaining by most emphatically refusing to enter into a conference with the operators employing union labor prior to April 1, 1922, in accordance with the custom and precedent that has continued throughout a period of over 20 years, and that they have called a strike, effective April 1, 1922, in direct violation of their contract obligations with the operators of said district.

I herewith enclose a copy of our numerous scale agreements and specifically call your attention to Rule 25, page 119, and most respectfully request you to refer to pages 126 and 127 in order that you may see the names of the officials and committee members who signed that agreement. I enclose the printed copy of the agreement in question that you can decide from the agreement itself whether or not my statements are true, with the confidence in your spirit of fairness that you will give these facts to the public through the same channels that you have so recently given facts concerning the strike difficulties.

I call your special attention to the fact that the United Mine Workers of America of District No. 2 and their officials are the same organization and officials who criticise (which is emphasized by your statements) the Pittsburgh and Southern Ohio operators for refusing to enter into joint conference and violating an alleged agreement when this same organization and its officials are guilty of the same conduct in the Central District of Pennsylvania. I may state in closing that practically all of the union mines in this district in direct violation of their contract obligations went out on strike April 1st.

Very truly yours
B. M. CLARK,
President.

WASHINGTON DC 1122A APRL 3 1922

B M CLARK
PRESIDENT BITUMINOUS COAL OPERATORS INDIANA PENN
YOUR LETTER FIRST INSTANT ALL MY PUBLIC STATEMENTS AND COMMUNICATIONS HAVE REFERENCE ONLY TO THAT SECTION OF THE CENTRAL COMPETITIVES STATES THAT FAILED TO CARRY OUT THE OBLIGATION ENTERED INTO ON MARCH THIRTY FIRST NINETEEN TWENTY AND HAS NO REFERENCE TO ANY OF THE DISTRICTS OR COMPANIES THAT HAVE SHOWN A WILLINGNESS TO MEET AROUND THE COUNCIL TABLE AS THEY HAVE DONE FOR MANY YEARS

(SIGNED) JAMES J DAVIS
SECRETARY OF LABOR
1158A

Indiana, Pa., April 3, 1922.

HON. JAMES J. DAVIS,
Secretary of Labor,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Davis:

I have your telegram of April 3rd in reply to my communication of the 1st instant, and note contents. I consider it unfortunate that your public statements and communications were made in general language that is subject to the interpretation that it applies to all operators. This is especially true in your criticism of the operators and your approval of the miners' conduct in being willing to meet in conference.

I, therefore, deemed it my duty to give you the facts as stated relative to the Central District of Pennsylvania, with the request that you make a public statement through the channels of the press criticising the United Mine Workers of America of District No. 2 for refusing to meet in conference and going on a strike April 1, 1922, in direct violation of their contract, copy of which is in your possession.

We have today, according to the statement of John Brophy, President of the United Mine Workers of America of District No. 2, 45,000 union miners idle in the Central District of Pennsylvania because the miners' officials of this district refused to meet in conference to negotiate a new contract, all of which is in direct violation of the contract with the operators of the Central Pennsylvania District.

You state in one of your articles that the outlying districts have a combined tonnage output much larger than that of the Central Competitive states, which is correct. I submit it to your good judgment whether the criticisms or approval of either side should not be determined by the action of the majority rather than the minority. I most respectfully submit a suggestion or opinion for your consideration, to-wit.:

That you should most severely criticise the United Mine Workers of America for calling a national strike in direct violation of their contract obligations because of a difference of opinion between a minority group of operators and United Mine Workers of America of the Central Competitive Field. Regardless of who is at fault in the alleged breach of agreement in the Central Competitive Field, it is no justification for a breach of separate and independent contracts on part of the United Mine Workers of America in the districts outlying the Central Competitive Field.

The facts are in your possession from which you can determine whether or not there has been a breach or violation of contracts, and if you so conclude I insist in your spirit of fairness that you publicly criticise such action.

Very truly yours,
(Sg.) B. M. CLARK
President.

Japan and Schools

Also Wild Cats, Deer, Etc.

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

Svirsky, representing at Washington the Far Eastern Republic of Siberia, says that war between the Republic and Japan is imminent; it may already have begun. EXTREMELY interesting.

Let us hope and pray that the Four-Power treaty cannot be twisted to mean that we ought to finance Japan in this war, or send men over there to help out. The thing is not impossible. That treaty was not cooked up and handed to poor old Uncle Sam for nothing. Wise men from Europe and Asia cooked and dished it up. Diplomatic infants in Washington swallowed it.

News comes from Maine that wild cats are killing the deer by the hundreds. The snow in the forests, made soft by the sun of Spring, allows the deer to sink up to their necks. The light-footed wild cats run over the surface, attack and destroy the deer cruelly. Offhand you will say that soon all the deer will be gone. That is not how it works. On the contrary, soon all the wild cats will be gone, and the deer will remain.

For the deer, year in and year out, help each other, warn each other, practice mutual aid. The wild cats hate and desert each other in trouble, and, although once in a while they drink plentifully of the deer's blood in Winter, in the long run they lose. That is what happens to all that rely on selfishness instead of relying on mutual aid.

Professor Overstreet, teacher of philosophy in the College of the City of New York, says there is too much imitation, not enough creative work, not enough thinking for themselves among students. "Raising snails in your apartment teaches you more of the movement of life than doing 'experiment 87' in the laboratory," says the teacher of philosophy, and adds, most truly that schools are largely places where parents can leave their children, and colleges "places of detention during the more annoying period of adolescence."

There are many things the matter with our system of education. Most serious is the fact that the education of the modern sort does not teach the mind to work for itself, but merely to absorb.

Charles, who would today be Emperor of Austria but for the Austrian bullying of Serbia and the war that followed, is dead. His will says he would like a regent appointed for his son until the latter is old enough to reign.

If the people of Austro-Hungary are intelligent, that would be a very long regency.

Budapest is much excited. Vienna to a less degree. The habit of royalty, like that of opium or cocaine, hangs on.

A drug fiend never attributes his troubles to the drug, so with the royalty addict.

Barbers in convention decide that they ought to have $1 for cutting the hair. And they announce that "dyeing the hair has become a popular fad of men." Hair-dyeing has long been popular with men, with old FOOLS and old WORKMEN. The old fools dye their hair because they know no better, poor things. The old workmen dye their hair because gray hairs are turned away in applying for a job. Fortunately the Angel Gabriel knows the difference between hair dye used in the struggle for existence, and hair dye used in the struggle to be foolish. He weeps over one, laughs at the other.

As for the $1 hair cut, the barbers should go a little slowly. Someone might come along and invent a reasonably good home-made hair cut. It probably is not impossible.

No Money for Bonus, BUT—

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

A meeting will be held in Washington to decide about buying buildings in which the various foreign ambassadors may be housed abroad.

The idea is that gentlemen selected to be ambassadors abroad should live in suitable style.

Nobody seems to know just what "suitable style" for one supposed to be representing a republic and a DEMOCRACY would be. The general idea is that "suitable style" would be a palace of the first class, with plenty of room for flunkies with powdered hair in the hall and dining room, large drawing rooms, etc.

An ambassador only gets about seventeen thousand dollars a year at most, and it seems to some of our officials "cruel" to expect him to house himself.

All this will interest soldiers who have been told that the nation can't "AFFORD" any bonus.

If the nation can't afford a soldier bonus, if the Republican party can't afford to keep the word and promise of its own platform, and give the men what they ought to have, how can it afford to buy palaces in European capitals for "ambassadors" that are in reality no more than exalted and well-paid messenger boys?

Wilson a Good Choice

We believe that Mr. Wilson will be a good Police Commissioner. He has in some respects high traditions to uphold in the department.

He also has some difficult tasks, but as a new man, he will have some advantages that his predecessor did not have in relation to some of the weaknesses of the department. We trust that he will be firm, wise and just. He has shown that he is a good administrator in the public office which he held under Mayor Peters.

He was a good appointment.

Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

PEOPLE born today are characterized in general by a wide diversity of interest and a consistent determination to finish some one of their enthusiasms to a successful conclusion.

While both of the qualities are valuable assets, at the same time they have their drawbacks and tend to make one superficial and stubborn. Superficial because there is so much which is interesting and so little time to know any one thing to its root—and stubborn because most enthusiasms are creatures of the will rather than of the enlightenment.

If today is your birthday you should cultivate your faculty of study, which you have in no small degree. Though, very probably dominant, you might with sufficient concentration devote a useful lifetime to the advancement of science.

Both men and women born this day are affectionate, but not demonstrative. Remember love is only a thought until it is a caress.

A child born today should have its health well guarded, although at the age of five or six it will suddenly become very robust. This is particularly true of children born after 6 p. m.

Famous persons born today:

Elihu Yale—Founder of Yale University.

Mary Pickford—Actress.

William H. Van Buren—Surgeon.

John Henry Devereux—Railroad president.

A Weird Moon Secret

By Garrett P. Serviss

"How were the craters, or large round openings, made that one sees in photographs or pictures of the moon?"—W. H., Chicago.

WE do not know how they were made. There are many conjectures intended to account for them, but none has been finally accepted. The word, "crater," which is usually employed even in formal scientific discussions of the moon's topography, is merely a term of convenience, based upon superficial resemblance, and adopted at an early period in the study of selenography, when the volcanic hypothethis of the origin of these formations of the moon was generally looked upon as probably well founded.

At present the volcanic hypothesis has been abandoned by the majority of astronomers, although they have found no satisfactory substitute for it. The reasons for its abandonment appear in an examination of the details of the lunar craters, as compared with the volcanic craters of the earth.

Size Differs

First comes size, which is not, however, in itself a deciding factor. The earth's surface is about fourteen times as large as the moon's, but the principal lunar craters are fifty times larger than the largest terrestrial one, and thousands of times greater in area than such craters as those of Vesuvius, Etna or Popocatepelt.

This last relative magnitude of the lunar craters might be more or less satisfactorily accounted for by the slight force of gravity on the moon, amounting to only one-sixth of that on the earth; but there are other discordant facts not so easily explicable.

For instance, the typical form of a volcano as we know volcanos is that of a mountain, more or less conical in outline, from one or two up to ten or more thousand feet in height, and having at the top a funnel-like opening a few hundred up to two or three thousand feet in diameter at the orifice, and running down to a "pipe" at the bottom, seldom more than 500 or 1,000 feet below the summit.

Chimney for Lava

This pipe, or chimney, serves as a conduit for the lava, forced up into the crater from beneath. The mountain literally "grows," being built up by successive exudations from the crater, and as the mountain becomes higher the cup of the crater rises with it.

One view is that they were made by the impact of gigantic meteors falling upon the moon in a long-past age. Experiments with projectiles have shown that formations resembling the lunar craters may be produced by such impacts. But the objection that, in that case, the earth, the moon's near neighbor, ought to have been equally pitted, has never been satisfactorily met.

ARE YOU AFRAID OF CRITICISM

"None will criticise you as long as you stay a no-body."—Bacon.

If you fear to do anything which will bring criticism, you never will do anything which will bring success.

The man who is a good superintendent is criticised.

The man who is a success in business is criticised.

The man who works long hours and spends little time in a social way is criticised.

Every man who raises advancement has enemies in proportion to his success.

Often these enemies have no reason whatsoever for feeling antagonistic, but they do anyway.

One must be aggressive to be able to insist upon his rights in order to succeed.

One must demand that others carry out orders explicitly, if there is to be a full measure of success, and there are always those who are slack, and no matter how just the demand, they resent being put into place—on time.

But, as a man, you have a right to proceed along prescribed lines and you have a right to expect others to allow you to pass, if you find they are in your way, or your "right of way," so go ahead, forget the criticism.

The Cannibal Microbe

PARIS, April 6.—Enter the cannibal-microbe.

Millions of these infinitesimal organisms are to be found everywhere, according to Dr. Francois d'Herelle, eminent French micrologist. They are in the ground, in clothes, in the air and particularly enjoy inhabiting the intestines of the human body.

"The most useful germ existing; without it humanity would perish," is the way Dr. d'Herelle qualifies the bacteriophage, which is short for bacteriophagum intestinale. The doctor has written a weighty book about the mite, and the book has engrossed the learned Academy of Medicine.

"The bacteriophage is man's only real friend," the scientist asserts. "His mission on earth is to eat other microbes—the dangerous sort. He likes germs of intestinal diseases, especially cholera, and thrives on the microbes of typhoid, typhus and septicemia hemorrhage."

The bacteriophage's only fault, according to the doctor, is his erratic temperament. Often he lays down on the job and lets the bad germs run riot through the system.

Intravenous injections of the bacteriophage are suggested as cures for most diseases, and a commission from the academy has been appointed to study the matter.

DO NOT HURT HEALTH OF CHILD BY STUDY

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by the Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

HERE'S a letter which ought to be printed in plain print and framed and hung in the bedroom of every father and mother in the United States of America. It tells a story which ought to be known and is hardly even suspected:

"Dear Winifred Black:

"I read your columns nearly every evening, but I can't find one article that answers to my situation.

"I am a boy fifteen years of age, have been in America only nine years and am an American citizen. My initials tell you that I belong to a family of high lineage.

"During these nine years in America I have studied, and studied hard, and I am now near my graduating year in high school.

Evening High

"I also attend evening high school and will be graduated from both the day and night high schools next year.

"I know five foreign languages, and my ambition is to be a civil engineer and succeed in life. But there is one great drawback. Although my father is educated and has money, I am offered no amusements at all—can't participate in any sport, shows, dances or parties.

"During my years I know of no joy I have gotten out of my life. From 8 in the morning to 1 o'clock at night. I am continually studying, and my health is failing. They send me to school because they think it's their duty, but they hate me. It's pretty hard to believe me, but they hate me.

"I have done nothing to offend them, so why must they treat me like that?

"What joy am I getting out of my life—no friends, no amusements, nothing? I intend to run away and be free. U. S. A."

Run away—poor little fellow, who can blame you for wanting to do that?

What on earth are they thinking of—these parents of yours—to let you work yourself to the brink of nervous prostration and never see what it is they are permitting you to do?

Hate you? If you could hear them talk about you to their friends—if you knew how other boys of your own age are pestered to death with tales of your ambition and your hard work, you would know that your mother and father are so proud of you that they are a nuisance to themselves and to everybody else!

There's a Limit

And all the time they are allowing you to break down your nerves and undermine your constitution, just to feed their vanity.

Day and night high school, indeed!

You wouldn't try to carry five glasses full of water in one hand, at one time, and never spill a drop—would you? When your hand is full, it is full—and that's all there is to it. You would be considered feeble-minded if you tried to prove anything else.

That's the same way with your brain—you can remember just so much, absorb just so much, understand just so much, at one time, and not one drop more.

Ex Libris

By Zoe B. Faber

DO you enjoy the sort of book that because it is present-day fact is far more interesting than fiction? Then, if you do, put aside the fiction that is at hand and read "My Own Affairs," by Princess Louise of Belgium.

Torn from her family, deprived of her fortune, exiled from her native land, separated from her husband, estranged from a son and daughter, imprisoned in a madhouse, the figure of Princess Louise of Belgium is one to sympathize with, to pity, and, most of all, to study, in her relation to the events before and after the war.

Princess Louise bears a hatred which is not pleasant to watch grow, but after reading the story of all that she was subjected to, who can blame her for being as bitter as is possible to the heart of man—or woman, which is a shade more or less intense?

The book is a fascinating one. You won't exactly enjoy it, but you will be very glad that you read it, we feel sure. It is a remarkable story of a very remarkable woman, and it is told exceptionally well. Her way of writing is concise, clear and unflinching in choice of material and expression.

While she calls it "My Own Affairs," it is far from an autobiography, for it is impossible that the story of one of the Royal Family of Belgium at this period of its history could be so slight a thing as just the story of one's own life. It is contributing evidence on a case that has turned the world upside down.

MAKE YOUR SHARE OF COMMON WEALTH

By Dr. Charles Fleischer.

THE founder of the House of Rothschild—so the story goes—was once beset by an insane radical or a radically sane person with the demand for hi share of the Rothschild wealth.

Meyer Anselm Rothschild ha a sense of humor, and handec the man a German five-pfenn piece as his proper proportion o the Rothschild moneys.

There are still some stupid folks who imagine that socialism stands for sub-division of property; and who then opine sententiously that such money would fairly promptly leave the thriftless hands of those who had not earned it, and would return to the care of the worth and wisdom divinely ordained to administer wealth.

Of course! Of course! However, that is another story and a long one; too big a theme for so short an article.

The writer takes the privilege of suggesting that America, apparently wedded to capitalism, would nevertheless be wise to delope the virtue of economic tolerance.

Better still, in view of the apparent injustice and the equally obvious inefficiency of our economic system, it would be well if we listened to, and learned from, proponents of new economic theory rather than denounce and ostracize and propagandize against them.

Learn From Enemies

If you are not able to love your enemies, you should be canny enough to learn from them. Your adverse critic has much to teach you—if you are not too obtuse to stop, listen, and learn.

If you have read thus far, you realize once more how hard it is to keep sweet, when discussing or even considering the acquisition of material things. Because all this is so intimately bound up with the very preservation of life, therefore our competitive fighting spirit is stirred by the mere mention of economic theories.

How different our feeling when we leave earth and things earthly, for the time, and airplane in the upper ether of the spirit! In that rarefied air, emotion is easily sweet, and though as easily clear.

Now you are in the realm of th really common life, where wealt belongs to all who can, and ca to, take it; where riches a made for all, and where ea may share in the comm wealth.

There, too, is the region that happiness which you fruitlessly pursue and do find, unless you know that T DEMOCRACY OF HAPPINE IS WITHIN YOU.

One does not want to prea unless as a layman to layme After all, the interests of the in ner life belong to all of u Religious teachers have only specialized in this general concern The inner life is the universa common wealth.

It should be evident that man differs from the animals in only those aspects of his nature which are peculiarly and distinctively human.

Only when we rise to the realm of spirit do we find Man in a class by himself. For that unescapable reason also, the individual human being—which means You—can find his genuine satisfactions only there.

Whether or not you choose to regard yourself as religious, here is a fact that you cannot avoid. So you may as well make and take your share of this common wealth of the spirit.

Disillusionment

If you want to be happy—as surely you do!

You ask your rich friends whether wealth won them happiness. Ask others whether social station or power or any of the many frantic pursuits of people give joy beyond the pursuit. The inevitable answer is the negative sigh of disillusionment.

You waste yourself in the pursuit, except as it may be incidental to the game of living. But spiritual property is created by the human mind and soul, and in that common wealth we all have a vested interest.

Music, art, science, religion, literature — even inventions, which are cups of the practical dipped out of the ocean of ideas —all these are the product and the possession of the whole world of men.

Make and take your share of that common wealth!

You have noted that the greatest of our human species are those who have contributed most to these universal spiritual interests. Herein we reverence most those who have enriched us most.

Jesus, Buddha, Beethoven, Pluto, Moses, Isaiah — of that kind are the billionaires of the common wealth. Your share of the riches of their spirit is: ALL THAT YOU CHOOSE TO HAVE.

Such wealth you make by taking it!
